

Kids at Camp: A Bright Spot at Conesus Lake

A Lesson in Crafts

Daily Mass in The Rustic Chapel

These four pictures of activity at Camp Stella Maris, diocesan boys camp at Conesus Lake, show a few appealing features of the experience available to 180 boys each week. Space is available at the Camp office, 50 Chestnut Street, for enrollments beginning July 14, 21, 28 and August 4.

Their three children, the house, even the back yard, seem to glow with good care. Both have good jobs, but they have no wish to leave Reynolds Street, "and be on the outside looking in," to quote Mattie.

Their projects attract helpers. Last Sunday afternoon, there were eight visitors at once, bringing clothing and blankets; money, even.

"People like this," Jim commented. "People are always asking what they can do to help. This way, there's a lot they can do. It's more friendly to go by car than bus, and old clothes are better than new ones for camp."

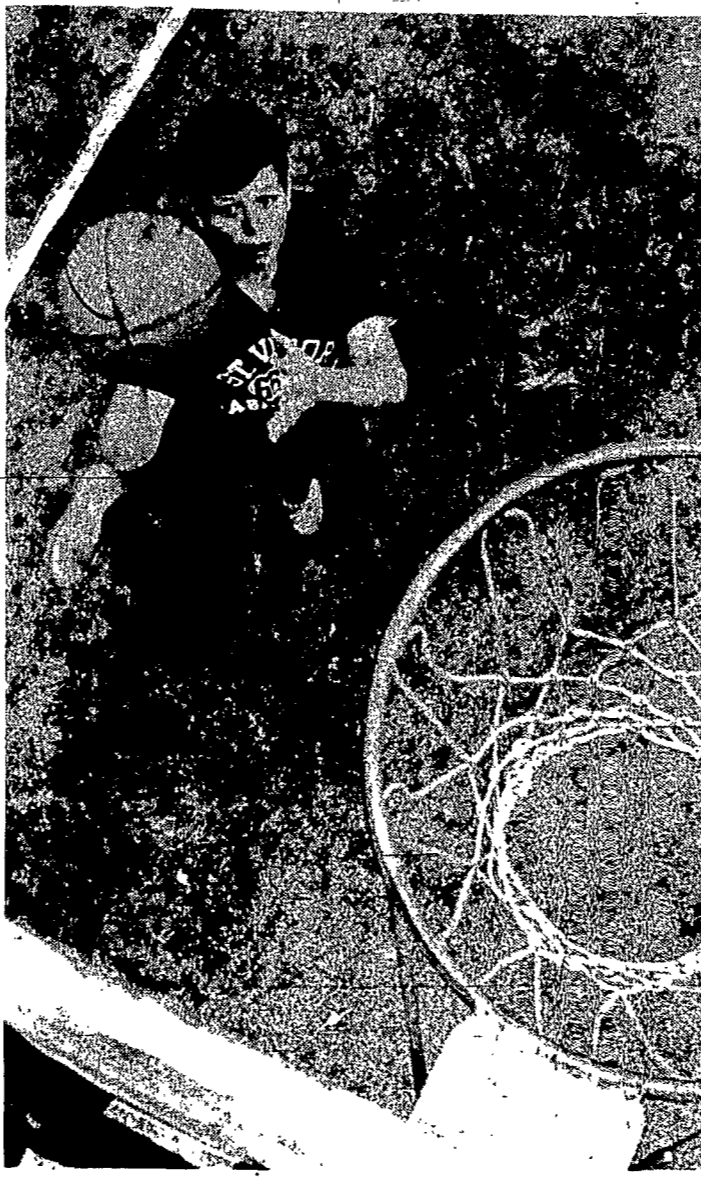

"Kids don't like to hear 'Is that what they got you for camp?'"

Meanwhile, back at the camps . . .

The kids are splashing each other in the lake, showing in the chow line, laughing so hard they fall out of their bunks, getting so tired they go out with the lights. Insect-bitten, bramble-scratched, water-logged — are they still black and white?

"How is it going?" one head counselor was asked the day after the guests arrived.

"Well," he said, and he laughed. "If you'll pardon the expression," he added, and he laughed again. "They all seem to be 'integrating' nicely."

$1.25 Million Bequeathed to Nazareth

Stock believed to be worth $1.25 million was bequeathed to Nazareth College in the will of Miss Mary R. Donnelly.

Several other Catholic institutions in Rochester and elsewhere are among the beneficiaries of the will probated this week.

Miss Donnelly, a retired grade school teacher who had worked in the city's public schools for 49 years, died May 21 at the age of 89. She left no relatives.

In a will dated Aug. 22, 1963, she gave Nazareth College all of her Xerox stock, but it is not known whether she still held the stock at the time of her death.

This should be determined July 24 when her safe deposit box is opened, the estate attorney's office said. The original stock split 5-1 after the will was written, and would be worth about $1.25 million in today's market.

The Community Chest here was bequeathed $50,000, and the local Red Cross, $25,000.

Specific bequests of $10,000 each were made to the Edmundite Fathers and the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. The remainder of the estate, after many other specific bequests, is to be shared by these two, half of it going to the Edmundites for their Selma, Ala., missions, and the other half to be divided equally between the Rochester and the national offices of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

St. Joseph's Villa is among some Catholic organizations which will $5,000 each. Attorney for the estate is former Supreme Court Justice James P. B. Duffy.

St. Ann Novena Set

Church Group Airs Kodak-FIGHT Conflict

Williams Bay, Wis.—(RNS)—The conflict between Rochester's Eastman Kodak Co. and people of its inner-city, backed by the Protestant Council of Churches, was discussed here by the Association of Council Secretaries under the theme of "encounters with power structures."

The 313 participants from 29 states and the District of Columbia heard scene-of-action descriptions by church leaders in struggles involving racial justice in employment, economic, migratory farm work, and efforts to change U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Churches have moved from working through existing social structures to a strategy of conflict with the "establishment" in attempts to produce change.

The Rev. Richard N. Hughes, executive director of the Rochester (N.Y.) Area Council of Churches, traced the history and tensions centered around the campaign of FIGHT to obtain employment and training concessions from local industry.

A bitter controversy raged from 1963 to 1964. Mr. Hughes said, "Battered, threatened, suffering from financial attrition, the churches and the council somehow held together and survived," he said.

"Oddly enough, we are better off in some ways than we were before all our trouble began."

Editors Urged To Help Implement Vatican II Papers

Berlin — (RNS) — A Baptist publisher called on Catholic editors here to unite with Protestants "in the creative, unified and forceful implementation of the documents of Vatican II."

Dr. Stanley I. Stuber, director of the Association Press (YMCA), in an address to the 8th World Congress of the International Catholic Press Union, said "Naturally as a Protestant and particularly as a Baptist, I cannot accept everything I find in the documents which apply specifically to the internal operation of the Roman Catholic Church."

"But," Dr. Stuber added, "when it comes to the great pastoral documents addressed to the world and all Christians, I not only accept them in principle but I am working almost daily for their implementation."

"I advocate that a changing press move quickly and unitedly into a position of advocating together such basic causes as are found in the Pastoral Constitution of the Church in the Modern World."

Birth Rate
By Barbara W

The developing nation not static or stagnant. Its age growth-rate of 4.8% are growing more rapidly the Atlantic world in its development a century ago positively leaping forward with the full stop to all it took place in the depression.

Yet two heavy anxieties picture which is, in essence more encouraging than I ment often supposed. I have explored. It is the rate of growth has been critically important in foreign exchange—of dollar and francs and sterling—able either by ordinary which however does no poorest lands, or by economic, which shows more alarming signs of falling international trade, well rigged in favor of nations while they show a being willing to lessen their own power.

The second anxiety lies that although 4.8% is not Atlantic nations' tradition not enough. The reason is in most of the developing population growth, unless control of epidemics and a miasma of public health, is ward by not much less year. This leaves the need for all the required in new technologies and health and schooling to modernize themselves.

Much of the pessimism pressed about the prospect

Berlin — (RNS) — The press must present the spirit of "scrupulous loyalty to the Church" and with "the real good of individual community," Pope Paul V. message to the 8th World of the Catholic International Union here.

"The pluralistic society needs the permanent contribution of the Catholic Church," said Pope Paul V. "This for the sake of the Church world serves the better and opens Christ's Gospel Church."

"The Pope urged the 'no unshrinking, objective honest' and to help achieve mutual understanding in peace and to strive, with God and Christ towards a new society."
