

Encyclical Poll: 51-49

Family Rosary

Kansas City, Mo. — (NC) — The diocesan clergy in the United States is almost evenly divided on the birth control issue in the Church, according to a national survey released here.

The survey showed that 49% of the priests believe that artificial contraception is in some circumstances permissible, while 51% believe that it is not.

The survey results were based on a random mail sampling in late August of some 3,750 diocesan priests, or 10% of those in the United States. Within 30 days, the survey drew 1,500 replies for a 40% return.

Conducting the survey was the Center for the Study of Man on the University of Notre Dame campus. Sponsors included the National Catholic Reporter, a weekly newspaper which released the results here Oct. 7.

The Family Rosary for Peace program is broadcast each evening at 7 p.m. by Rochester radio station WSA-Y, WMBQ-FM in Auburn, television cable companies Channel 5 in Hornell, Channel 8 in Elmira and 88.75 mc. in Corning. Those who will lead in recitation of the Rosary this week are:

Friday, Oct. 11 — Chester Power, Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Saturday, Oct. 12 — Mass will be celebrated. St. Patrick's Fraternity, Third Order of St. Francis, will attend.

Sunday, Oct. 13 — William S. McBride of Holy Rosary, accompanied by K. of C. Council 178, will lead.

Monday, Oct. 14 — A representative of St. Joseph's-Holy Name Society.

Tuesday, Oct. 15 — Gerard A. Dill, Sr., of Good Shepherd.

Thursday, Oct. 17 — A representative of St. George's Holy Name Society.

County Wielding Jet Injector Gun For TB Testing

The Monroe County Department of Health tomorrow is using a jet injector gun to administer tuberculin tests to ninth grade students in 38 public and parochial high schools of the city and county.

Dr. Wendell R. Ames, county health director, said the newly acquired instrument offers several advantages over conventional tuberculin testing procedures which are performed manually.

Dr. Ames listed the advantages as follows:

• Speed. The jet injector gun will enable the administration of 600 tuberculin tests per hour, more than double the number by hand.

• Low Cost. With the jet injector gun, the cost per test will be less than one cent, as compared to 24 cents per test by the manual method.

• Patient Acceptance. The jet injector gun does not employ needles or other sharp points. Test material is injected into the skin by a fine jet spray under hydraulic pressure. There is no pain for the recipient.

• Better Control. The jet injector enables the administration of a more uniform dosage of test material than the manually performed method.

Dr. Ames said the jet injector gun has versatility in that it also may be used to administer immunizations, such as smallpox and measles vaccines.

It is quickly adapted for inoculations by changing the nozzle of the gun.

The Monroe County Health Department is the first public health agency in New York State to obtain the instrument. Dr. W. George Swabach, director of Tuberculosis Control for the department, said the gun was acquired following successful field trials by the U.S. Public Health Service and the University of Illinois. He said Mrs. Helen Sauer, TB project nurse, spent a week at the University of Illinois last year training in the use of the gun.

No tests are given without the required permission of parents.

The tuberculin testing of 10,000 ninth grade high school students is now in its third year. Students are screened at this age because they are undergoing rapid growth and other stresses of puberty which place them at greater risk of developing infection.

to the test, indicating the presence of the TB germ are placed on isoniazid, an antimicrobial drug. This drug has been used for a number of years to treat TB, and in recent years studies have shown it also can prevent active disease in individuals who harbor the TB germ but are not ill.

The remaining schedule of the testing program through the end of this year is: St. Agnes High School, Oct. 14; Cardinal Mooney High School, Oct. 15; Nazareth Academy, Oct. 21; Aquinas Institute, Oct. 28; Mc-

Quaid Jesuit High School, Nov. 4; Bishop Kearney High School, Nov. 5; Our Lady of Mercy High School, Nov. 12; King's Preparatory, Nov. 18; Charlotte High School, Oct. 22; Benjamin Franklin High School, Oct. 29; Jefferson High School, Nov. 19; John Marshall High School, Dec. 2; Madison High School, Dec. 3; West High School, Dec. 9; Morave High School, Dec. 10.

St. Joseph Business School has already been visited.

Genesee Settlement Marks Anniversary

The fiftieth anniversary of Genesee Settlement House will be celebrated next week in three events.

Bishop James E. Kearney will offer a Mass of thanksgiving this Sunday noon at St. Francis Xavier Church.

Open house will be held two days, Tuesday and Thursday, from 10 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., at 10 Dake St., and a dinner will be held at 7 p.m. next Saturday in the Columbus Civic Center ballroom. Msgr. Donald J. Mulcahy, director of Rochester Catholic Charities, will speak.

The settlement, established originally as a recreational "big brothers club" for young men, was expanded into a teaching institute to serve immigrants. As a social service agency, it became associated with Catholic Charities in 1924 and with the Community Chest in 1926.

The center, directed by Miss Mary Hannick for the past 21 years, now has a staff of 14 full-time and 10 part-time employees, in addition to college students assigned for work experience.

The Dake St. location which the center has occupied since 1939 comes within the Model Cities renewal area.

Editor Sees Rebellion In Encyclical Dissent

Mobile, Ala. — (NC) — A priest-editor said here the so-called rebellion by some Catholic theologians against Pope Paul VI's birth control encyclical is directed against the teaching authority of the Church.

Father Daniel Lyons, S.J., of New York, N.Y., addressing the closing banquet of the annual three-day Mobile-Birmingham Diocesan Council of Catholic Women convention emphasized "the right to teach with authority in the Church has never rested with the theologians."

The editor of Twin Circle and former sociology professor at Gonzaga University, Spokane, said Catholic theologians "are free to speculate on various subjects until the Church has spoken."

"But the authority of the Church rests entirely with the Supreme Pontiff and the bishops," he declared. "There are many indications that the defiance of a few was not based on theology but on the spirit of rebellion of the liberal mind."

He said that theologians who disagreed with the Pope's birth control ruling "made no distinction between older forms of contraceptives and the pill." Father Lyons added: "They did not seem to care. For them, the issue was not birth control so much as it was the spirit of independence of the law by challenging the lawgiver."

CWC to Hear Bible Scholar

Mother Kathryn Sullivan, writer and research professor in Sacred Scripture at Manhattanville College, will address the Council of Catholic Women at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 19, in Our Lady of Mercy High School, Blossom Road.

Catholic women are urged to bring friends of other faiths.

Mother Sullivan is the only woman to have held major office in the Catholic Biblical Association. She recently completed a year of travel and study, surveying biblical and ecumenical trends in Europe and the Middle East.

Clergy

Washington, D.C. — (RNS) — The chief clinical chaplain of the Georgian Clinic in Atlanta, famed for his work with alcoholics, said that a new breed of activist minister instead of being just a "largely untapped source of ancillary helpers in the field," can be the "key professional" in the treatment team to the alcoholic.

Dr. George P. Dominick told a panel on Religion and Church during the 28th International Congress on Alcohol and Alcoholism here that by virtue of their training, clergymen "are well able to tolerate and understand the ever-present death wish and self-destructive behavior of the alcoholic."

At issue for many an alcoholic, he continued, is whether he will struggle to control his life to some constructive purpose, or if he will kill himself by drinking.

"This existential dilemma expresses the spiritual dimension of alcoholism, which

Cardinal Felici Hits Dissenters From Encyclical

Vatican City — Pericle Cardinal Felice, president of the Pontifical Commission for Revision of the Code of Canon Law, has reprimanded theologians and individuals who continued to express their own evaluations and guidance on birth control and contra Pope Paul VI's teachings.

Writing in L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican City newspaper, Cardinal Felice said "Let us point out that 'so bishops are not the episcopate,' which, together with Pope, and never without his guidance and authority, has the complete universal magistratum," said.

"Conscience, according to clear teaching of ecclesiastical tradition and of the Sacred Vatican Council itself, must illumined and formed according to the remote object norm, which is the law of interpreted where necessary the magistratum of the Church

Cardinal Heenan Denies 'Revolt'

London — (RNS) — J Cardinal Heenan denied that there is "a revolt" by man Catholic clergy in England and Wales over the papal cyclical on birth control.

Acknowledging that the movement has caused a great deal of disappointment because has made no change in traditional teaching, the Archbishop of Westminster conceded there had been a "certain turbulence" in the ranks of clergy, which was "understandable."

"For one priest who has claimed dissent there are content to accept the Pope's cision. There are other priests who were disappointed by decision.

"The reactions of million Catholics who expected change and would have scandalized by a change I not been very widely reported. The critics of the Pope I been given exclusive publicity. The result is a misleading picture of disunity, especially among the clergy."

Cardinal Heenan stressed that a priest had the right to speak what he believes but "no priest has the right to into the pulpit and denounce the Pope's encyclical."

"A priest is not at liberty to contradict the Holy Father: his public teaching," the cardinal said. "There is a difference in a man's official duty: a priest and his views in private conversation."
