Courier-Journal - Friday, Dec. 20, 1968

COURIER-JOURNAL EDITORIAL PAGE

Published Weekly by the Rochester Catholic Press Association

The Need for Checking Movies

Several years ago, in an attempt to stress the positive approach to the question of morality in the movies, the Legion of Decency changed its name to National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures. The familiar Legion Pledge which Catholics were urged to renew each year no longer is prescribed in all diocese throughout the United States at Sunday Mass near the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

6A

The advisability of the change and the alleged effects thereof could be argued endlessly and heatedly, especially in view of a current wider permissiveness on screen of what not long ago was reasonably adjudged to be morally offensive. The point is that the individual movie-goer is not now granted some measure of new latitude which he did not enjoy before. Nor is he dis-pensed from the obligation of forming and biding by a right and honest conscience.

The bishops of the Second Vatican Council made that amply clear in their 1963 "Decree on the Media of Social Communication: In order that those who make use of these media may fulfill the moral code, they ought not to neglect to inform themselves in time about judgments passed by authorities competent in these matters. They ought also to follow such judgments according to the norms of an upright conscience. So that they may more easily resist improper inducements and rather encourage those that are desirable, let them take care to guide and instruct their consciences with suitable aids" (Art. 9).

On Nov. 1 this year the Motion Picture Association of America came up with its own rating system, whereby admission to films is supposed to be on an age suitability basis. For example, pictures deemed by the association as suitable for general patronage are rated G. That's how "The Impossible Years," currently featured in Radio City Music Hall's Christmas show, is classified. To judge from notices in the general press, this film is poorly paired with the Nativity Pageant on stage there.

WALK WA

N.M.W.M.

2

W.W.M.W.M.

NA NA NA

Astute reviewer Renata Adler of the New York Times found the film comedy dirty and joyless. She reports that it contains dirty jokes in the poorest taste imaginable. Tablet critic James Arnold says the picture "cannily exploits sex for much of its appeal.'

It would seem then that the Motion Picture Association of America does not qualify as the competent authority for guidance in the formation of a right conscience. The Catholic Office for Motion Pictures rates this movie A-3 (for adults only). This is hardly fit entertainment fare for consumption by the entire family — the type of audience for which the Music Hall Christmas show is allegedly intended.

The more we see, read and hear of today's movies, of both domestic and foreign origin, the more we are aware of the need and value of such a service as the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures. Its standards, by the way, are by no means severe.

(The Tablet, Brooklyn, 12/12/68.)

Two Anguished Leaders

I, for one, cannot help linking Pope Paul and President Johnson in my mind. To me they even look alike: For both, things haven't gone the way they and everybody else expected. Bothalthough for President Johnson not for long-rule over bitterly divided domains and both are anguished because of it.

The Pope, being Italian, expresses it. ever more frequently and more emotionally. The President, pioneer Texan, bears it stoically but it is none the less evident to the discerning eve and charisma, which just might have helped to calm the present storms, but which, alas, was not handed on. Couldn't be, I suppose.

Both started their administrations with all the omens most favorable. Both are able, energetic and dedicated the usual Lyndon Johnson nevond.

happened to President Johnson. Among other things, birth control happened to Pope Paul.

But, in all probability, what most

MADONNA AND CHILD

By Leonardo da Vinci, 1452-1519

By FATHER ROBERT MCNAMARA

Another of the monthly ticles commemorating history of the Rochester D cese, written especially the centennial year by author of THE DIOCESE ROCHESTER, 1868-1968.

The year 1968, which man the 100th birthday of t diocese of Rochester, a marks the 100th anniversa of the downtown chur building so well known Rochesterians as "the Fren Church."

This little parish of (Lady of Victory has had interesting history. The y 1968 is obviously a good th to review that story a lit more fully than has be done before.

In 1841, after he had ma a visit to Rochester (wh was then in his Dioce Bishop John Hughes of N York wrote: "The large a increasing number of Ca dians and French Cathol and its neighborhood enco age them to solicit the pr ence of a clergyman w could speak to them in th own language.'

There was, indeed, a gr ing number of French-Ca dians and French in Roct ter. Some of the names the earliest members of colony were: Pierre and seph Savard, Charles Lan reaux, Edouard Gravel, seph Forest, Antoine Lan J. Lavigne, Israel LeBe Severe Gendreau, and A broise Dupont.

It was the Redemptor of St. Joseph's Church who few years after Bis

Then, among other things, Vietnam happened to both men, is the surge of events too great for them, or for any man, to surmount and to master. A surge which is a combination of big things and little, of cosmic sweeps and little old human promptings. There's the population explosion and the explosion of knowledge and invention and the awakening and upris ploited people; the majority of man-There is a law that operates in human events that never gets the attention it should and that is the law of rising expectations. It is at the bottom of mighty forces operating in the world today.

No.

wanted to be a great president, Paul a great pope. The times were most propitious.

In the nation, prosperity was, as it still is, unparalleled. After the Kennedy Khrushchev confrontation in Cuba things began to settle down internationally. The nuclear detente had been arranged and the cold war was thawing, a bit. Civil rights was carrying all before it and there was a happy feeling all around of a great country amending ancient wrongs and doing all right by the lowly.

In the Church, in the warm afterglow of the Vatican Council, there was a great feeling of euphoria. Religion was front page stuff all over the world. Ancient enemies were sitting down, and kneeling down, together in exhilarating friendship. Spring was in the air and the happy feeling of renewal. Both in church and state everything looked great.

But now Oh, my! Crisis and chaos. Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble. Bitterness and division everywhere, in the church and in the civil community. What happended to both pope and president?

To begin with, both stepped into the places of men of great personal charm kind, that is.

The black and other disparaged peo ples, have glimpsed the promised land of equal opportunity an dhuman dignity; the colonial peoples have tasted self government and the use of their own resources; the sisters in the convents and the simple priests have experienced personhood and self direction; and they all want more. Which, with the resistance it encounters, makes for a lot of tension.

and President Johnson should not have opened the Pandora's Box of rising expectations but the inexorable fact is that they did and that these expecta-

Which accounts for the anguish that has driven the President from office and has driven the Pope to unusual expressions of anxiety.

their resources to institutions dedicated to peace and to developing countries & A contribution of 1 per

• Public prayer and Masses for peace and also private prayers. Con-celebration of Masses by priests of various races, countries and social

• Other religious ceremonies, ecumenical wherever possible, including silent marches outside churches or temples or in a stadiums or large

• Penitence and offerings, includ-

• Hospitality and meetings on the occasion of the World Day of Peace, such as Christmas Eve or New Year's Day parties for foreigners, visits to the sick and prisoners on New Year's Day; literacy and language courses, and pilgrimages from country to

• A new pedagogy to foster a uni-

The document stresses that the celebration of the World Day of Peace "must be prepared and pursued in line with a program chosen under the responsibility of the episcopal conferences of various countries.'

"In this respect," it says, "Peace versal awareness of the demands of ing reconciliation and forgiveness for injuries, fasting in order to share, cent of income is suggested.

origins.

public halls.

country.

peace.

and "taxes for peace."

Highlights of the document:

(Msgr. George W. Casey, in

Vatican Urges Justice As Step to Peace

Vatican City — (NC) — A global program directed toward the promotion of justice as the means of countering the "permanent threat of war" and achievement of peace by channeling military spending into aid for developing nations has been issued by the Vatican to mark Pope Paul VI's second World Day of Peace on Jan. 1, 1969.

The annual World Day of Peace was inaugurated by Pope Paul last January

The 16-page document was prepared by the Papal Secretariat of State for the 1969 World Day of Peace observances with the theme, Road to Peace.'

The Vatican document provides a suggested plan for persons responsible for the organization of the World Day of Peace on national levels in all countries. It calls for action by individuals, groups and governments and expresses the hope that the Vatican appeal "will find a favorable echo in other Christians and in all men of good will everywhere."

It asks Catholics to join non-Catholics in ecumenical religious services to undertake acts of penance, charity and brotherhood.

The statement says that "the impossibility for indivduals or social groups to find on this earth a dignified existence, to insure their family's subsistence by their work and to safeguard their legitimate cultural and ethnic heritage, is a cause of grave injustices and leaves permanent threats of war hovering over the

It also urges that individuals,

Maybe, the men before Pope Paul tions won't go back in again quietly.

The Witness, Dubuque, 12/12/68)

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

Seething controversy in the Church, over age-old precepts, amidst accelerating deterioration of moral and physical values, supports my contention that we should not confine all our worries to the population explosion. At its present rate, the dollar explosion will destroy us-morally, mentally and physically -- before the other has even become a serious threat.

Coincidental — but far surpassing the population explosion — is the explosion of inflated wealth; concentrating (unearned and unjustly) in privileged hands.

By the President's own report, the pollution rate of air. land and water (if continued unabated) will destroy us in an amazingly short time twenty years if I correctly recall but who will deny the perpetrators their profit?

God-appointed substance of starving humanity is squandered on ridiculous luxury and waste. Food and shelter are denied millions of innocent children whom God has sent in order to restore and preserve, in their iniquity, the aged and decadent (the writer included) whom God has called.

-Edward A. Veith 464 Lake Rd., Webster

Editor:

Congratulations are surely in order to Monsignor William Roche for his forthright approach at last to the local Catholic school situation. I refer, of course, to the earnest admonition (Courier Journal, 12 13 68) he has put to the officials and taxpavers of the area concerning the almost inevitable inundation of the public schools by school children formerly accommodated by the diocesan system. Unwillingness to acknowledge this earlier is a tribute to his long-suffering patience with an American phenomenon that has long been unjust

Far too long have Catholic parents born without public funds the burden of the separate education their consciences demanded. The callousness, indeed animosity, of the antipathetic public must be made to realize the service the Catholic school system has rendered the community.

As a concerned parent and teacher, it seems to me that earnest Catholics have a good deal of rethinking to do at this crisis; the problem is not one that will be solved either by a sudden financially-saving subsidy or the closing totally of our schools. I wonder if we as Catholics ought not to be looking to a different kind of education, focused to those functions and disciplines more immediately spiritual and moral. and so, more properly the Church's.

Then, far from fearing the public school system, we could allow our offspring to bring to it the leaven of their solid Christian example. -Clarence A. Amann

98 Caroline St., Rochester Editor:

Weeks and various ecumenical mani-Having just finished Father Charles festations, as well as participation in Curran's recent book "The New Chrisofficial national or other ceremontian Morality," I want to salute him ies, can be considered and are even

This is an exhaustive and exhausting study of some of the rules of morality which have been accepted widely in the Catholic Church in the light of both history and emerging philosophy and theology.

He has taken the time to understand the times in whih we live and to appreciate the interplay of rules with real experience

When he criticizes, he does so in a loving, constructive way. A wise person welcomes criticism because in this way he learns. Only the insecure see criticism as a threat.

To quote from the book: "I firmly believe that the mission of the Christian and the Church is to serve the world ... There is too much suffering and inequality in our country, let alone in a world blighted by injustice ignorance and hunger, for the Christian to be content with the present situation."

God has blessed Father Curran with a magnificent mind and he has had said if true renewal is to take place. It would have been more comfortable to be silent

-Mrs. Margaret Joynt, Pittsford

Editor:

Recently two articles appeared in the Courier by Bishop Casey and Msgr. Roche on the need for the continuation of Catholic schools.

No where in these two articles did either of these men address themselves to the problem of Catholic education in general.

I ask this from these realities: 1. "he Cat' plic schools in most parishes serve the minority of Catholic children.

2. The reason why many children do not go is not because the parents do not want them to attend, but rather--a. there isn't room; b. the child may

Word for Sunday

Wait in Prayer for God To Speak

By Father Albert Shamon

Whenever Scripture introduces a prophet of God, it generally details the time and the place of his vocation. This was done to show that God always comes to us in the human situation. He takes us in the times and places we are! He dos not wait, nor has to, for the "ideal" time. When He calls, that is the ideal time!

In the year 27 A.D., the fifteenth of Tiberius Caesar, the political situation was about as bad as it could be-Caesar was seventy-one, a rascal tyrant if ever there was one; the kingdom of the Jews was split up among foreigners: Pontius Pilate, Herod Antipas, Philip, and Lysanias.

The religious situation was even worse. Luke names Annas and Caiphas as high priests, although there never were two high priests at the same time. What Luke meant was that Caiphas, the son-in-law of Annas, was high priest in name only. In fact he was manipulated by his crafty old father-inlaw. Annas, who had been deposed from the high priesthood years before because he was too unscrupulous for even the pagan Romans to stomach.

Often in Scriptures, when things appeared humanly hopeless, it was then that God intervened in history. So in those dark days, "the word of God was spoken to John, son of Zachary, in the desert." John did not go into the world before he was sent. Before the word of God was spoken to him, John waited. He waited as Jesus was waiting for thirty years in Nazareth. He waited like Mary after Good Friday. He waited like the apostles after the Ascension of our Lord.

We find it so hard to wait for God.

have a specific need that the Catholic school readily admits it cannot handle. This children not in the Catholic schools do not receive full measure of training - let me illustrate:-

Parish A: Children in Catholic School Lot for Catholic School $105,000 Children in CCD School Budget for CCD School

23

Parish B: Children in Catholic School 600 Budget for Catholic School $55,000 Children in CCD School 1,400 Budget for CCD School $3,000

100

• •

650

1,000

$4,000

So. I write this letter to ask if someor . somewhere will please write an be the en Catholic education in general ad of on Catholic schools in par-And until someone addresses have if to the problem they are REALLY saying "Suffer the little children to come unto me - IF THEY ATTEND CATHOLIC SCHOOL."

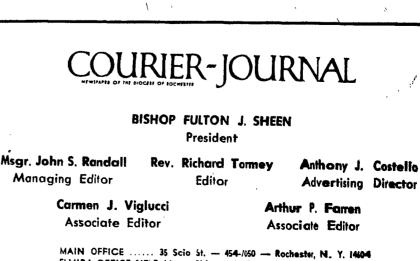

-Rosalie M. Reinhardt, Spencerport

a kind of Christian pantheism." They

John withdrew from the world; he retreated into the desert. God's word came to him there. Then - and only then-did he return to the world, not to find God there, but to bring His message to it.

This too is the advantage the Christian has over the pagan. The poor pagan must seek the Invisible Creator through His visible creation. But not the Christian. He has the Church. There, he can commune with His God -drink in His power in prayer, His life in the wonderful sacraments. Only then, filled with His life and Spirit. can he go forth into the world, not to find God there, but to bring Him to it and, in bringing Him to it, to possess Him more surely.

ELMIRA OFFICE 317 Robinson Bidg., Lake St. .. RE 2-568 or RE 2-3423

Auxiliary Bishop De ordained Dec. 14 pr Hickey imparted the CSB., imparting ble

Joseph Mercier (rigi new president of R Medonna t most in this life is to wait in prayer as John did. For there can never be dies. A man is but a man, but in the hands of God he can become a burning light "Based on a complete misreading of people like Teilhard de Chardin," Bernard Cooke wrote, some people have the nonsensical idea "that somehow everything around us --- 'the profane, material world — is already shot through with divinity in some way . . .

with everything-our jobs, our homes. see God in the world. They seek Him our Church. We so want to jump the gun, to hurry, hurry, to get things there done. Yet perhaps what we all need fruitful activity without a background of passive receptivity, never His work without His Spirit. Without God's word, John was only John - a nobody in the wilderness. A piano is but a pi ano, but in the hands of Horowitz it becomes a fountain of melliflous melo-

the courage to say what needs to be

