Washington —(NC)— Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., told a National Press Club gathering here he has received assurances that the United States will give increased support to relief efforts aimed at helping victims on both sides of the Vigerian civil war.

Goodell, who recently reurned from a 10-day trip to Biafra, said that the increased government aid would be channeled through international voluntary relief agen-

The U.S. State Department, the following day (Feb. 20), sought to soften the senator's declaration concerning "assurances." The department press officer, Robert J. Me-Closkey, said the senator was 'simply assured that we would, as we had in the past, consider every feasible way to assist the international efforts operating on both sides. sides of the battle_line."

Sen: Goodell said: "I am assured that the U.S. ernment will make available to relief agencies on a feasible and emergency basis such cargo planes, ships and personnel and parts as are found to be necessary to perform the humanitarian mission of getting food and medical supplies to the starving people in Biafra and Nigeria."

The senator discussed experlences from his recent trip to Biafra and exhibited pieces of shrapnel that he said came from a Nigerian bombing raid on a Biafran Catholic church in which 105

Land of Contrasts

Israel is a new country and an old land; modern cities and biblical settlements; space-age jobs and timeless occupations. Israel is also the focus of the world as the central point of a threatening international crisis. The newness of Israel is seen in the modern port city of Haifa (upper left) and the strength of her army (lower right). The antiquity of Israel is typified by Safed, (upper right) a high Galilee town best known as the city of the Cabbala, a mystic Jewish sect, and by the shepherds (lower left) who still tend their flocks on Israel's hills. Cardinal Expresses Regrets to Newspaper

Cardinal Heenan of Westminster said that he has privateexpressed his regrets to The Times, a London daily, and its reporter Clifford Longley if he had been unjust to them recently when he accused them of printing slanted news about the Catholic

In a letter to the Times in December Cardinal Heenan had complained that it was "overexposing" English Catholic affairs through exceptional publicity given recent incidents of unrest, even the most minor ones.

Near the end of January the cardinal warned a group of Catholic parents "to be very careful in reading the Times when things of Catholic interest are reported. staff of the Times who is a opportunity to produce slanted news which is not trust-

Both Cardinal Heenan and the Times have come out of the episode with dignity, with the Times courteously providing the cardinal with space to write about problems of Church publicity.

"I have since privately expressed regret if I was unjust to the Times and to the journalist," Cardinal Heenan said. "It's well to confess publicly that it is sometimes the Church and not the press which is at fault."
