

Two King's Prep Students Win Gannett Scholarships

Two students of King's Preparatory School, Kurt Metzler and Joseph DiSalvo, carried off $3,000 each as winners of Frank Gannett Newspaper boy Scholarships.

Kurt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Metzler, is a paper carrier for the Democrat and Chronicle; and Joe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. DiSalvo, is a paper carrier for the Times Union.

Kurt was captain of this year's varsity basketball team at King's Prep. He has also served as editor of the yearbook, reporter for the school paper, the Trumpet K, varsity soccer player in his junior and senior years, and is a member of the National Honor Society.

He is a communicant of Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish and will major in sociology at Niagara University next year.

Joe is editor of the school paper, part-time operator of the book store at King's Prep, vice president of the Debate Club, and volunteer at St. Ambrose Church, where he is a communicant.

Joe plans to enter Fordham University in the fall.

Five Will Go To Consistory

Four priests and a layman from the Rochester area will be among the thousands who will attend the elevation of Cardinals in Vatican City next week.

They include the Very Rev. Charles J. Lavery, CSB, president of Basilian-staffed St. John Fisher College; Father Edmund J. McCorkel, CSB, of the college faculty, former superior general of the Basilians, and William T. Howe — all friends of Cardinal-designate George B. Flahiff, CSB, Archbishop of Winnipeg, Man. Fathers Thomas and John Reddington also will travel to Rome as friends of Cardinal-designate John J. Wright, Bishop of Pittsburgh.

Welch Named to C.U. Magazine

Eugene Welch, a second-year law student at The Catholic University of America, was recently named Article & Book Review Ed. of the Law Review, the quarterly publication of the Columbus School of Law of the University.

Mr. Welch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Welch of 48 Marsh St., Rochester.

FORDHAM PROTEST

New York — (RNS) — The Students for a Democratic Society chapter at Fordham University staged a protest at the school's Bronx campus asking the abolition of the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program at the Roman Catholic school.

He graduated from McQuaid Jesuit H.S. (62) and from St. John Fisher College, B.A. (English) before coming to Catholic University.

Prexy's Unrest RX: Talk But Be Firm

Remain firm but keep communications open — that's Villanova University's prescription for avoiding campus violence.

Father William E. Farrell, O.S.A., a Rochester native and Villanova's vice president for development, said here last week that the university has avoided unrest by laying down rules for the Students for a Democratic Society.

Here to address local alumni last Saturday, Father Farrell interference with the rights of the students cannot be tolerated.

But, he continued, Villanova also tries to talk with SDS before a crisis develops, to clarify any misunderstanding they may have. He said there are about 25 active SDS members at Villanova out of a student body of 5,000, and SDS so far has cooperated with university guidelines.

"In a university," Father Farrell said, "there should be free inquiry into the problems of society and all sides have to be heard. But even when students have a good cause," he emphasized, "they can't use unacceptable means to further that cause."

On display were projects from more than 80 individual students from 13 area junior high and high schools.

Second place in the senior division went to Janet Gordon of West High School for her work on the "preparation of skeletons."

In the junior division, Peter O'Connor of King's Prep took first place for his study of "water bacteriology"; and Robert Boss, also of King's Prep, took second place for his exhibit of "mechanical paramcium."

In the novice class, Stephen Lang of Our Mother of Sorrows won first place for his display of "transmission and reception of a voice modulated light beam."

Joseph Zablotski of St. Louis, Pittsford, won second place for his model of the solar system; and Domenic Luciano and John Liclone, of Holy Family, took third prize for their two-man project "the microscopic world."

The fair was organized by Father Bernard Gross, professor of science and science club moderator at King's Prep.

Each year the students dedicate the fair to a person who has made great contributions to the advancement of science.

Dear Friends,
The POP program ends completely in 5 more days — on April 30.

Though your organization has profited from the POP program, a much greater opportunity for earning cash awaits you. This is MONEY LABELS, a brand new idea in fund-raising originated by a Rochester resident. Nothing quite like it has ever been available. To make a profit personally while at the same time contributing to your organization, is certainly new and revolutionary.

The best way to learn all about MONEY LABELS is to attend one of our informational meetings. These are held at various convenient locations throughout the diocese. See the MONEY LABELS ad in each week's Courier for the listing of times and places.

KREY'S Old-Fashioned Southern Style Sausage

OLD FASHION KREY HOT PURE HOT PORK SAUSAGE

Dear Krey customers:
I don't know about you, but pork sausage has always been a breakfast favorite of mine; and so I was delighted, a few years back, to come across the best-tasting sausage I'd ever had. It was on a trip down south, and this sausage was southern-style all the way. It was spicy and peppery, with lots of zip. It took some doing, but I managed to get the recipe, which I brought back to the cooks at our Krey Kitchens. I can't let you in on all the secrets, but the accent is on freshly-crushed red peppers, sage, other exotic spices, and more lean meat than you're used to getting in sausage. We call it Krey Southern Brand Sausage, and we make it up the old-fashioned country way — in two-pound cloth rolls. Take some home next time you shop. Oh — and try it on pizza. It's unbelievably good!

Yours for peppier breakfasts,
Katherine Krey

P.S. We're also making a new "mild" blend now. I hope you'll try a package for a change of taste. Just great for poultry dressings.
