

New Nursing Director at St. Mary's
Miss Patricia Reagan (left), assistant director of nursing at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, has been named director to succeed Sister Mary Agnes, DC. Miss Reagan, 1958 graduate of the hospital's School of Nursing, received master's degree from University of Maryland in 1965 and has served at St. Mary's for six years, has been named director of nursing, St. Vincent's Hospital, Bridgeport, Conn.

French Church, Others Seen as 'Landmarks'

Action to preserve several of Rochester buildings as religious landmarks has been urged by City Councilman Stephen May.

In an address to the Landmarks Preservation Committee, May urged the group to take action on three central city churches which he said are "threatened by urban renewal or redevelopment plans."

Among them he listed the old French Church, Our Lady of Victory, on Pleasant Street.

He also cited the A.N.E. Zion Church on Favor Street and the Universalist Church on Clinton Avenue South as having "significant roles in the history of this community."

The Republican councilman said that the former Sacred Academy on Prince Street merits attention too, because "the new owner may be planning changes in the exterior appearance of the chapel and main building."

"Substantial alteration of this landmark would be unfortunate," he said.

TV Movie Ratings

Ratings are those given by the former Legion of Decency, now the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures, when films were originally shown. A-1: morally objectionable for general patronage; A-2: morally objectionable for adults and adolescents; A-3: morally objectionable for adults; A-4: morally objectionable for adults, with reservations; B: morally objectionable in part for all; C: condemned. No Rating: film has not been reviewed by the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures (formerly the Legion of Decency). N.B. Before A-3 classification was established, A-2 indicated morally objectionable for adults.

As I See It

There's a Word for It -- Class

By PAT COSTA

There was the new television season just getting underway, looking overdressed and underfed and hoping mightily for some attention.

Then in its midst enters the outsider, the documentary "Royal Family," blending charm and professionalism in such a way as to completely steal the thunder of any of the homemade products.

Produced and directed by Richard Cawston of British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) and Britain's commercial Independent Television Authority, Sunday's 90-minute look at Queen Elizabeth and her family was a gem.

After getting over the initial shock that yes, we were indeed getting a look at the private life of the world's best known monarch, we settled down to watch family scene after family scene.

There was the queen dressed in slacks relaxing on the royal yacht, barbecuing what looked like sausages outside her country home Sandringham, driving her own car, taking her children to look at some puppies, trimming a Christmas tree, regaling her elder children with stories of her childhood.

Contrasting with this seldom if ever seen picture of the royal wife and mother were the more familiar scenes of the queen knitting some worthy, receiving some ambassadors, inspecting the guard, visiting foreign nations.

If it were easy enough to identify with the queen in the family situations, envying her perhaps for the way conveniences and comforts materialized with little or no concern on her part, one could pity her for the ceremony that must necessarily attend her every waking public moment.

Christian Growth Topic in McQuaid Continuing Study

The entire faculty of McQuaid Jesuit High School together with officers of the Parents' Association and student officers, spent last Wednesday at the Cenacle Retreat House discussing the Christian growth of McQuaid students.

The meeting was devoted to group discussions of Christian growth through retreats, curriculum, activities, worship, apostolic endeavors and family life. It was directed by Rev. William C. McCusker, S.J., senior counselor and director at McQuaid, who will guide a follow-up application of conclusions reached.

Father Joseph H. Fichter, S.J., a sociologist and Stillman Professor at Harvard School of Divinity, made a detailed study in 1966 of the students in the 53 Jesuit high schools in this country. This year, Father Fichter made a follow-up study, entitled, Jesuit High Schools Revisited, in which he again analyzed the religious beliefs, behavioral patterns, social attitudes, and cultural trends in Jesuit High schools across the country.

Last month, a group from each of the nine Jesuit High Schools in the New York Province met at Monroe, N.Y. for three days. This group, comprising the rectors, principals, theology department heads, student counselors and lay teachers, analyzed the strengths and weaknesses of present efforts toward Christian growth among the Jesuits' students. The Cenacle meeting was a further attempt to apply Father Fichter's findings to the students, parents, and faculty of McQuaid.

Sears Roebuck commercials, interspersed throughout, were tastefully and appropriately done.

It's nice to be pleasantly surprised when it comes to situation comedy and I might add, mighty unusual.

"Room 222" perhaps does not fit the sitcom category (particularly since it is being promoted as comedy drama) but it is close enough to make comparisons.

From the one show seen thus far, it appears to stand head and shoulders above other new entries in its field.

Lloyd Hanes and Li McIntyre as black teacher and black counselor in an integrated school bring humor, compassion and a little fire to their roles in an effort which seems a directorial standout for hitting just the right level in mood, pacing and sustained control.

What's more the scripts sound like someone human wrote them.

On the deficit side among the new shows we watched in the past week or so is Debbie Reynolds' scene.

Miss Reynolds, a cut-up of some talent, appears to be the victim of some passe slapstick.

In an era when most of us relish the kind of humor that touches our intelligence at least minutely, her show depends primarily on sight gags of ancient but not so rare vintage.

Art Sale Scheduled To Aid Project Hope

A "fantastic flying ship" made of intricate welded metal by a young Rochester sculptor will be on exhibit at Midtown Plaza Mall from 9 p.m. Oct. 3 through Oct. 12 as the symbolic centerpiece of a massive art sale and show to raise funds for the floating medical center, S.S. Hope.

The fanciful metal sculpture, nearly three feet high, consists of a ship in full sail, supported in the air by a cluster of hollow copper balls, suggesting balloons. For good measure the ship has wheels.

"The ship symbolizes the medical ship, the flying idea is suggestive of high hopes," says sculptor Brian Wilson, 24, of 91 Locust St. "I let my imagination loose in designing this piece, because it also symbolizes the imaginativeness and creativity of nearly 400 artists in the Monroe County area who are donating works to the Hope sale. This is believed to be the biggest benefit art exhibit and sale ever held in Rochester."

All artworks at the show were donated and all proceeds will go to the S.S. Hope, which depends entirely on voluntary contributions for its finances. The vessel travels throughout the world to provide free medical treatment and to train medical personnel in the host countries.

Scialdone Joins Courier Ad Staff

George M. Scialdone, 138 Spencer St., this week became an account executive in the advertising sales department of the Courier-Journal.

A announcement of the appointment was made by Anthony J. Costello, advertising director. Scialdone formerly was a display advertising salesman for the Gannett Newspapers.

During the last two years he has served as a neighborhood service representative in the Rochester Division of Community Relations. Scialdone, his wife Karen and their son, Michael, are parishioners of St. Anthony of Padua Church.

He is a candidate for the County Legislature for the 28th District.

MAKE IT A BETTER WORLD

THE HOLY FATHER'S MISSION AID TO THE ORIENTAL CHURCH

ONLY YOU CAN DO THIS

How can you make this troubled world a better place? Pray for our native priests and Sisters each day, and do all you can to give them what they need. They are your ambassadors to the poor, and they get lonely, hungry, tired. Month by month, have a share in all the good they do!

For only $200 in Ernakulam you can build a decent house for a family that now sleeps on the sidewalks. Simply send your check to us. Archbishop Patecattil will write to thank you also.

Send a 'stringless' gift each month to the Holy Father to take care of the countless number of mission emergencies. He will use it where it's needed most.

Give a child a chance. In India, Ethiopia, and the Holy Land you can "adopt" a blind girl, a deaf-mute boy, or a needy orphan for only $10 a month ($120 a year). We'll send you the youngster's photo, tell you about him (or her).

Send us your Mass intentions. The offering you make, when a missionary priest offers Mass for your intention, supports him for one day. Mass intentions are his only means of support.

Feed a refugee family for a month. It costs only $10. We'll send you an Olive Wood Rosary from the Holy Land.

DO IT NOW

Somehow in our 18-country mission world you can build a complete parish plant (church, school, rectory, and convent) for $10,000. Name it for your favorite saint, in your loved ones' memory.
