Father Lavery Speaks At Ecumenical Event

Peace, beauty and harmony in life will come only when "we get back to the reality of God—not only on Sunday but on every day of the week."

This was the theme last Sunday morning of Father Charles J. Lavery, CSB, president of St. John Fisher College, principal speaker at the 11th annual Communion breakfast of Sibley employees in the downtown store's Tower Restaurant.

Among guests was Bishop Hogan, who expressed pleasure at the growth of ecumenical activity in the diocese but who admitted that "we still have a long way to go."

Prior to the breakfast the employees had attended either one of two church services — Mass at St. Joseph's Church on Franklin Street or Holy Communion at Christ Church Cathedral on East Avenue. Bishop James E. Kearney, as he has done for many years, celebrated the Mass at St. Joseph's.

Other guests included Father Albert J. Riesner, CSSR, new rector of St. Joseph's; the Rev. Canon St. Julian Simpkins, rector of St. Simon's Episcopal Church; Mrs. P. Harper Sibley, widely-known Rochester ecumenist, and Monroe County Court Judge David O. Boehm. They were presented by William E. Lee, Sibley president.

Father Lavery declared that "many people have taken God so much for granted that they don't even take time to think of Him." Life, he added, should be seen as a triangle, "God, you and your neighbor."

God, he said, "is giving us a little more time. For centuries we have been divided—the day must come when we all are one, all races and all creeds."

Women's Forum Set At Lutheran Church

A county judge, a former public defender and representatives of legal aid services will be among the speakers at the annual Women's Forum next Friday, Feb. 6, in the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 33 Grove Place.

"Inequities in Justice" is the theme. The program will begin at 9:45 a.m. and end at 2 p.m. Speakers, in the order of their appearance, will be Mrs. Emmelyn Logan, for the American Civil Liberties Union; County Judge David O. Boehm; Mrs. Joan O'Byrne of ABC Legal service, and Charles L. Willis, corporation counsel, who formerly was Monroe County public defender. Discussion will follow their presentations.

After lunch, Canon George Stiegler of the Joint Office for Urban Ministry, and the Rev. Mr. John Wischmeyer, a Catholic deacon serving the Area Youth Ministry, will tell of their work in the "judicial process ministry." The Women's Forum is sponsored by the Catholic Women's Club, Church Women United, the Council of Jewish Women, the Negro Business and professional Women's Club and the YWCA.

Reservations should be made by Feb. 2 with Mrs. William Fennessy, 254-0269. Dessert and beverages will be served, and there will be provision for the care of children.

The New Order of the Mass

(This is the ninth and last in a series on the new Order of the Mass.)

By FATHER VINCENT J. GIESE

(NC News Service)

"Everything by themselves, nothing without the priest" is an axiom in the lay apostolate that could very well be applied to the celebration of the Eucharist. The axiom stresses the importance of priest and people in liturgical celebrations.

Certainly, what might be called "presidential style" is all important in celebrating the Eucharist according to the new Order of the Mass.

Most of the changes pertain to the priest.

The leadership of the celebrant is absolutely indispensable to a successful liturgy, no matter how much participation there is.

It is the celebrant's task, as the one presiding over the Christian community, to help the people be aware of and responsive to God's presence in the liturgy. It is he who must take special care that his words and actions express the reality about which he speaks. He must take the initiative in communicating.

The Mass is not a private prayer but a public function, whose words are a vocal expression of inner feelings. Priest and people are banded together in this 'summit of worship.'

Since the language of liturgy is the language of signs, the building, the artistic forms used, the variety and quality of the music, the arrangement of the place of worship — all things that affect the senses — must be carefully chosen if they are to express the meaning of the liturgy and lead to an awareness of God's presence among us.

If "presidential style" is essential to a successful liturgy, so is preparation. Someone must develop the theme, select the options in Scripture, Eucharistic and other prayers, and music that go into making a unified Mass.

Experimentally, the team should evaluate the liturgy in the parish, plan regular and special liturgical celebrations, and carry them out in the practical order.

The parish liturgy team, in short, should share in the responsibility for the improvement of celebrations, all the more important with the introduction this Spring of the new Order of the Mass, new rites of Baptism and Matrimony.

Although the need to plan such liturgies is primarily the responsibility of the priest-celebrant, he needs the assistance of a task-force of laity to fulfill his responsibility.

Mrs. Young Retires As Mercy Teacher

Mrs. Andrew Young, one of the first lay teachers in the diocesan school system, retired this week from the faculty of Our Lady of Mercy High School after almost 30 years as head of the Physical Education Department.

During her three decades at Mercy, Mrs. Young was the only gym instructor until 1966, carrying up to 30 class hours a week, as well as coaching the various teams in sports. She managed to train outstanding teams, especially in basketball. Her groups were undefeated over a six-year period during the 60's and the competition included the best of both Catholic and Public Schools.

For many years, her 300-girl marching unit was the talk of the Memorial Day Parade.

A graduate of Cortland State University, Mrs. Young had several years of teaching in public schools before accepting the position at Mercy. In addition to her teaching career, she was active in Girl Scouts, her Church, and in supporting other Mercy activities.

Some 5000 girls came under Mrs. Young's instruction during those 30 years; she remembers them all by name.

Mrs. Young and her husband, Andrew, also retired, plan to relax both at their summer cottage on Lake Ontario, and at a family home in Florida.
