'He Ain't Heavy' Shares the Burden

By The Mission Singers It's said that the title of this song, recorded by the Hollies, comes from a true story about the founding of Boys Town in Nebraska. There was a major disaster in a country area, with hundreds of people injured and in need of help. Rescue workers rushed into the area and came upon a boy carrying a younger boy.

Realizing the older fellow must have been exhausted, the workers immediately tried to unburden him of his load. With a few simple words, the older boy told them what love can do: "He ain't heavy, he's my brother."

"So on we go, his welfare is my concern; no burden is he to bear, we'll get there." The story of those two boys is a beautiful one, especially if it's true. It's a shame, though, that it's not true more often.

And most of the time it's not true. "If I'm laden at all, I'm laden with sadness that everyone's heart isn't filled with gladness and love for one another."

Two seven-year-old boys come around to see us quite often. They're both in the same grade and are good pals. One's name is Tommy, and he's white; the other is Tony, and he's black. One day they were playing around, switching jackets, and hanging all over each other, laughing at how they looked in each other's clothes.

Sign of Love Theme of Folk Group

That's the theme of the Blessed Sacrament Parish Folk Group which last week attained a special prominence — they recorded 10 folk hymns which will be published as a record album about Easter time.

Established two years ago as a guitar-singing choir for folk Masses at the church, the now 17-member aggregation includes nine instrumental players and eight singers. They provide music each Sunday at the parish's 12:15 p.m. Mass.

Organizers were sons of Mrs. Edward McCarthy, 106 Gregory Hill Road. Pat, 19, is a student at Monroe Community College, and Brian, 17, is a senior at Monroe High School. Their sister, Mary Ann McCarthy, 14, a guitarist, also is part of the outfit.

The three-hour recording session took place in Blessed Sacrament Church. The record is being processed by the Century-Dengler Recording Service, Rochester, and will

"HE AIN'T HEAVY, HE'S MY BROTHER"

The road is long with many a winding turn That leads us to who knows where, who knows where? But I'm strong—strong enough to carry him. He ain't heavy, he's my brother.

So on we go, his welfare is my concern; No burden is he to bear, we'll get there. For I know he would not encumber me. He ain't heavy, he's my brother.

If I'm laden at all, I'm laden with sadness That everyone's heart isn't filled with gladness And love for one another.

It's a long hard road from which there is no return. While we're on the way to there, why not share? And the load doesn't weigh me down at all. He ain't heavy, he's my brother.

This Is a Seminary?

Seattle (NC)—A threatened boycott of classes by seminarians, because a fellow student was suspended for recruiting go-go dancers to perform at a state prison, has been averted here for the time being.

Theology students at the Seattle archdiocese's major seminary — St. Thomas the Apostle, in Kenmore — voted to strike unless the incident was looked into by a compulsory review board.

After a four-hour meeting with students, seminary faculty members and representatives of the archdiocesan senate of priests, the protesters agreed to postpone the boycott pending a special inquiry.

At the center of the dispute is James Pattenau, 24, a second-year theology student.

Pattenau's suspension came after an article appeared recently in the Seattle Times. The daily newspaper told about a seminary student visiting a tavern to recruit musicians and go-go dancers to perform for inmates at Monroe State Reformatory.

The student, along with four other seminarians, has been engaged in religious instruction work at the maximum security prison for some time.

Although Pattenau was not mentioned by name in the news story, archdiocesan officials uncovered his identity and the suspension followed.

According to the Catholic Northwest Progress, weekly of the Seattle archdiocese, Archbishop Connolly suspended Pattenau for the remainder of the academic year on the grounds that his tavern visit "gave scandal" and was "unbecoming" a candidate for the priesthood.

Father Damasus Winzen, B. fine Father, founder and novel Abbot of Mt. Saviour Monastery has offered the Courier-Journal following article on the thought evoked in the Holy Communion.

By Very Rev. Damasus W. The Eucharistic celebration: its climax and fully reveals its meaning as a feast in the last part Mass, the Rite of Holy Communion.

The purpose of every feast, transformation and sharing. In Holy Communion the Eucharist shares with us His new life by us His body and blood as "in of immortality." The risen life in which we share at the Holy Banquet is peace and unity.

Consequently the idea of dominates the various rites of the course of time have come around the Eucharistic Meal, to prepare it, or to mark its completion.

Unfortunately, in the course Middle Ages, the Mass had lost and more its communal character of active participation part of the laity. This affected the rite of Holy Communion.
