Community Chest Benefits Catholic Charities

St. Joseph's Villa Youngsters

My Dear People:

During the next two weeks, the workers of the Community Chest-Red Cross Campaign will once more be coming to you for your contributions. Their goal will be the raising of nearly $10,500,000 required to assist 91 local and national agencies serving the needy of this community

Among these agencies are the seven from our own Catholic Charities organization. They depend upon our yearly support in order to maintain many helping programs for youth, for the aging, for the people of the inner city, and for anyone in need.

Catholic Family Center

Among agencies receiving a substantial allotment from the Community Chest is the Rochester Catholic Family Center. Photo shows an interview at Center's headquarters in Columbus Civic Center.

I give my strong support to the Community Chest-Red Cross Campaign and encourage your generosity. My main thought always is Christ's command to love our neighbors as ourselves. For this is the Law of Love: to bear joyfully one another's burdens.

With a blessing, I am

Devotedly yours in Christ,

Frysk X. Hagen Bishop of Rochester

AGENCIES OF CATHOLIC CHARITIES (1968-69)

Catholic Family Center	6468,662
Genesee Settlement House	164,483
Catholic Youth Organization	126,016
Charles Settlement House	87,573

Neighborhood Centers

Instruction in crafts is among activities for youngsters at the Catholic Charities- associated Charles Settlement House on Jay Street. Many new programs are being scheduled there and also at the Genesee Settlement House on Dake Street.

Home for the Aged

Craft hobbies keep some oldsters busy at something to do in St. Ann's Home for the Aged on Portland Avenue. Many new programs are being introduced at St. Ann's for the benefit of the elderly men and women residents.
