Bishop Hogan Honored by Scouts

Bath — Bishop Hogan's long interest in scouting was recognized here April 28 as he and two priests were presented with bronze pelican awards.

Bishop Hogan, principal speaker at the 23rd annual report dinner of the diocesan Catholic Committee on Scouting, held in St. Mary's Church hall, is himself an Eagle Scout, and said that the scouting program had his warmest approval.

Nearly 250 scouters and officials of the seven councils serving the diocese attended the dinner, which recognized volunteer service.

Louis A. Langie Sr., of Rochester, a charter member of the diocesan Scouting Committee, was presented with an engraved

Bishop Hogan presented the St. George emblems to recipients, with Edwin G. Harish reading the citations. Father Joseph Brennan, rector of St. Bernard's Seminary, read citations for the bronze pelican recipients.

Among speakers was David Rabideau, a member of Troop 37 sponsored by St. John the Evangelist's Church, Rochester, who spoke on "What Scouting Means to Me."

It was announced that Ad Altare Dei presentations will be made by the Steuben Area Council on May 17 and that similar presentations will be made by Otetiana Council on June 5 at Annunciation Church, Rochester.

CYO EXPANDS CAMP PROGRAM

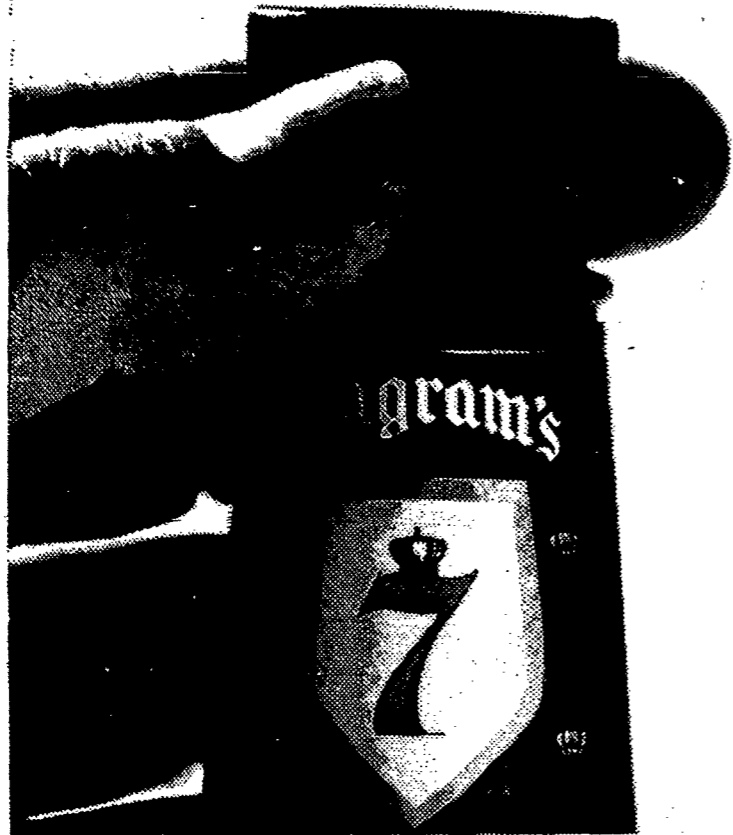

The Catholic Youth Organization will operate six day camps this summer, covering thirty-two parishes in Rochester and Monroe County. Paul B. Schmidt, CYO executive, said that 1,285 boys and girls between the ages of six and 13 attended camp last year, and that enrollment this year is expected to exceed 1,500.

The camps will be located at 50 Chestnut Street, St. Ambrose, Good Shepherd, Mother of Sorrows, Holy Ghost (new camp) and in the innercity Clinton and Joseph Avenue area. All campers will be transported in CYO buses and may register for one or more weeks.

The program will include swimming and life saving instruction and other sports; arts and crafts, field trips and fishing, among many activities under the supervision of professionally trained instructors.

Registration forms may be obtained at the parishes or by calling or writing to the CYO, 50 Chestnut Street, Rochester, N.Y.—phone 454-2030. Special rates are available for large families.
