Fifth Graders Show Class

The fifth grade class at St. Jerome's School, East Rochester, has again proved their town is "the home of champions." They are helping to educate the world. The 22-member unit of 10- and 11-year-olds has completed a project to get more than 70 Rand McNally world atlases, for themselves and others less fortunate.

Last October, the Scott Paper Co. announced an offer in conjunction with the Rand McNally Publishing Co. For every 15 towel wrappers sent in, one could receive a free world atlas.

James Capellupo's class went into action. "I divided the 22 children into teams to increase competition," Capellupo said. "Within two months we had mailed in for 22 atlases. We set a goal for 30."

The class then realized they had a good thing going, according to Capellupo. They reset their goal to 50; then 60; then 70. Each child in the class was promised one atlas.

The additional books, they agreed, would be donated to the needy. These books are now going to St. Joseph's Villa in Rochester and the Latin American mission of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

According to Capellupo, the class brought in nearly 1,100 wrappers. Every day meant stuffing them in large manilla envelopes, and a trip to the Post Office.

He reported the value of each atlas is $13.

"This seven-month project," Capellupo said, "is only one example of what can develop when people work together for a common goal. Age makes no difference when people care for each other."

Men's Club Slates Installation

New officers and governors of the St. Margaret Mary Church Men's Club will be installed at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. Monday, May 18, in the parish school auditorium.

Officers to be installed for a one-year term include Alban Reichert, president; Richard Aulenbacher, vice president; Joseph O'Keefe, secretary; Robert Gores, assistant secretary, and Lawrence Bufano, treasurer.

Elected to the board of governors for three-year terms were Walter (Bud) Rodenhouse, Joseph Molinari, Carl Steinfeldt, Robert Brasch and Stanley Stahura.

City Airman Fills Post In Alaska

The largest Catholic and Protestant Education Programs in the U.S. Air Force, at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska, have for their "non-commissioned officer in charge" the youngest man ever to serve in such a responsible position in the history of the chaplain program there.

He is Sgt. James J. Meyer, born 23 years ago, on Sept. 28, 1946, in Rochester. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Meyer, 100 Woodhill Drive, Greece, parishioners of Our Lady of Mercy Church.

A graduate of Charlotte High School, he majored in business administration at Canton Junior College and Rochester Institute of Technology.

Meyer enlisted in 1966, took basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas, and became a computer specialist at Clinton-Sherman AFB, Oklahoma.

He served as Holy Name Society president there, and as president of the Catholic Single Adult Club at Elmendorf. Currently he is studying for a bachelor degree in business management at the University of Alaska night school.

Tall oaks from little acorns grow, and this one is on its way at the entrance to Holy Ghost Cemetery, Coldwater Road. Fifth graders planted the sapling on May 1, each taking a turn with the shovel. They promised to take care of the tree during vacation.
