

All in the Family

Thanks, But No Thanks

By Sarah Child

(The following is a letter to my sister-in-law after a week-end visit to my husband's home town where we shuttled between her house and his brother's while spending nights at his mother's.)

Dear Helen:

Sorry I didn't call you back before we left for home but the baby was screaming and I was worrying about the effect it had on the people underneath your mother's apartment.

As it turned out, we left rather suddenly. Johanna's blister on her heel broke, causing her some pain, and at about the same time she developed a bloody nose which took care of her last clean outfit.

Then John, who was watching your Mom prepare sandwiches, teetered backwards on the kitchen chair and cracked his head against the radiator. I couldn't find much of a bump but his mouth bled a little when he bit his tongue.

The children's father did not really decide to leave until Mom cut her wrist with the meat knife. (She was slicing the left-over roast beef and I suppose the noise startled her.)

We had a lovely weekend. Thanks for the picnic and letting Johanna stay overnight with her cousins.

Don't worry about her blue dress. She had worn it at least once before. I mean if all the other kids were running around the park and going down the slides on their stomachs—what can you do? (Do you happen to know where she took her socks off? I can't seem to find them.)

I just hope you don't mind too much about Lynn's white sweater. It was sweet of her to lend it, and Johanna still had it on when she developed the nose bleed. Perhaps you'll have better luck getting out the stains than I did.

I think it's probably just as well that Johanna missed the visit to your brother's. John knocked over two of their framed pictures and left a trail of potato chips through the house.

COURIER / WOMEN

They're a game couple and smiled convincingly throughout, but I couldn't blame them for wincing when he kicked their new pedigreed pup. We scolded John continually, but guess he figured that with the dog being twice as big as he it was his only maneuver.

Your mother seemed tired when we left. She seemed to enjoy the new baby, even though Cara screamed her head off every time her grandmother picked her up.

We made it home in good time. Your younger brother and I had a small discussion in one of the Savarin service areas but he made up for lost time by flooring it the rest of the way home.

Thanks for the invitation to stay at your house next time. Just possibly we may stay put the rest of the summer and let the relatives come to us.

Much love from us all,
Sarah.

To Be Honored

About 70 business leaders, educators, advisers, achievers, and parents will gather 6:29 p.m. (May 14) tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce to hear John E. Lomenzo, New York secretary of state, address the 2nd annual Junior Achievement Future Unlimited banquet.

The purpose is to honor the 600 students from 24 Monroe County high schools, who have operated 34 Junior Achievement companies. Highlights will be the presentation of the officers-of-the-year awards, scholarships, company-of-the-year awards, and other individual awards.

COURIER / RECIPES

This elegant dessert is an apple custard pie that starts in a box and "bakes" in the refrigerator. Allow a total of three hours for the chilling.

APPLE CUSTARD PIE

- 1 package (3 oz.) Golden Egg Custard Mix
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1 baked 9 inch pie shell, cooled
- 2 cups thin apple slices
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 3 tablespoons coarse gingersnap crumbs

Blend custard mix with milk in a saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Cool 15 minutes, stirring often. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill 1 hour.

Meanwhile, combine apple slices, sugar, water, spices, and lemon rind in a saucepan. Bring to boil. Simmer about 10 minutes or until apple slices are tender. Cool 10 to 15 minutes. Sprinkle gingersnap crumbs over custard in pie shell. Spoon apple slices over crumbs. Chill until set — about 2 hours.

SALAD MEAL

Now's the time of year when a colorful whole-meal salad tastes wonderfully good. Use crisp greens in bite-sized pieces. Add a few wedges of tomato, thin slivers of American cheese and luncheon meat, and some drained cling peach slices. Make a thin French dressing, with freshly ground black pepper added, pour over all and serve immediately.

EASY DESSERT

Drained canned fruit cocktail and crisp chopped nuts molded in raspberry-flavored gelatin make a delicious easy dessert. Add the fruits and nuts when the gelatin mixture is syrupy. If it's a party dessert, fold in a pint of softened ice cream at the same time and chill until firm.
