

New Look in the 'Army'

LONDON—Maj. Kath Benn, left, and Sylvia Dalziel model the old and new Salvation Army uniforms, respectively, as the new garb was introduced in England. After the first alterations in 92 years, the "coal-scuttle" bonnet has been replaced by a "chic missionary derby." The Pershing jacket is out too in favor of jacket with regular lapel-type collar.

Suspended Sentence for Devlin

Omagh, Northern Ireland—(NC)—Bernadette Devlin, fiery civil rights advocate and a Northern Ireland representative in the British parliament, received a three-month prison sentence, suspended for two years, on charges arising from a recent demonstration against the Omagh urban council. She also was fined $48.

The 23-year-old M.P. is appealing a six-month jail sentence for her part in rioting last August in Londonderry. Miss Devlin told a news conference May 17: "I have already made plans to direct my election campaign from a prison cell if necessary." Parliamentary elections will take place June 18.

Since October, 1968, Northern Ireland has been rocked by demonstrations and riots arising out of the conflict between the Protestant majority and the Catholic minority. The Catholics maintain that they are the objects of discrimination in the areas of jobs, housing, voting and education.

Colombia's Vatican Envoy Quits

Bogota—(RNS)—The Colombian ambassador has resigned as his country's representative to the Vatican. Bogota Radio quoted Dario Echandio as saying that the Pope had refused to see him in private audience to discuss a "small alteration" in the Concordat between Colombia and the Holy See.

The ambassador did not reveal the nature of the desired change. Vatican Radio has remained silent on the matter.

Anglicans Fight Land Act

Bulawayo, Rhodesia—(RNS)—The Anglican Synod of Matabeleland voted overwhelmingly to endorse a statement by Rhodesian church leaders condemning the country's new Constitution and Land Tenure Act. By a vote of 96 to 8, the Synod backed the April statement of representatives of 11 denominations in Rhodesia that "the new Constitution and the Land Tenure Act cannot be reconciled with the Christian faith, since they entrench separation and discrimination solely on the basis of race."

Earlier, Rhodesia's Roman Catholic bishops had served notice on the Ian Smith regime that they will shut down their 820 schools, 43 hospitals, 88 dispensaries, 23 orphanages, and other social welfare institutions if the provisions of the Land Act are carried out.

Church Groups
Vote GM Shares
Against Company

New York—(RNS)—The National Council of Churches voted its 500 shares of General Motors stock in favor of two resolutions presented by a "Campaign to Make General Motors Responsible."

The Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions also planned to vote its 7,857 shares for the two proposals.

Spurred by a group of Washington, D.C., attorneys, one resolution on the ballot would place three spokesmen representing the "public interest" on GM's board of directors. The second would create a committee to report to the public and stockholders on such issues as safety and anti-pollution efforts.

Involved in the effort to "Make GM Responsible" is Ralph Nader, the consumer champion. Perhaps the largest number of shares to support the Nader forces was the 160,000 held by the Pension Fund of the City of New York.

There are 285 million outstanding shares of GM stock.

Participants in the campaign felt they had won their cause without winning the vote, which they did not expect to carry. "We have started a great national debate on corporate responsibility and have forced corporations and shareholders to reexamine their policies," said one advocate.
