'The Square Revolutionary'

By LAURENCE MULLIN Religious News Service

New York—For many Americans the word "revolutionary" conjures up images of secret bomb factories, smashed store windows, bank burnings, campus riots, inflammatory rhetoric and blood-letting.

What, then, is one to make of a modern self-styled "professional revolutionary" who espouses radical change yet is firmly opposed to the use of

What is one to think of a revolutionary who believes in "absolute values" of right and wrong, insists on the need for "absolute standards" of morality, and calls for "a revolution with an ethic"? A revolutionary who says that St. Thomas Aquinas, the medieval theologianphilosopher, should be made "relevant to today's revolution," and who opts for "belief in a Transcendent"?

There is just such a revolutionary active today.

Ed Butler is the author of a book, entitled "Revolution Is My Profession". He is 35, the first son of an old New Orleans family, an accomplished artist with two one-man shows to his credit, and a debater who tangled with Lee Harvey Oswald in a radio debate, a few short weeks before the slaying of President Kennedy in Dallas.

Butler is the chief spokesman for "The Square Movement."

He described it as one that propagandizes itself not by bloody confrontations with symbols of the ubiquitous enemy of all revolutions, "the Establishment"; not by taking to the streets in acts of civil disobedience; not by the irrationalities of gun or bomb; but through reasoned debate, through a glossy "mod-styled" quarterly, "the Village Square Magazine," through a campus - oriented newspaper, and — most effectively, Butler believes—through his syndicated TV show, "The Square World of Ed Butler."

Some people consider the square movement as a kind of intellectual front for rightists; others regard it as a not-toosubtle mask for leftists. Butler insists it is neither right nor

"It all comes down to this," he said, "communism breeds tyranny. So does fascism. The real fight is between the tyrannists and the believers in freedom," adding with strong emphasis, "the Square movement is anti-tyrannism."

"The Square World of Ed Butler," he explained, seeks to provide at least three viewpoints: the right, the left, and the square. This latter is a synthesis of usable and relevant elements of the other two, plus the catalytic agent of "creativity," and the buffering agent of "an ethic,"

"The Square World is con-stantly seeking ethical answers - especially in the all-important field of communications," he said, mentioning, for example, the vexed ethical questions involved in TV presentations of riots, mayhem, drug-taking.

There are still persons who respond to the name and emphasis on "square" by charging that the program, and the ideology it represents, must be "reactionary."

How "reactionary" is a program that one day features movie star John Wayne, and, another day, Yippie leader Jerry Rubin? they ask. Or how archly conservative is a program that includes stars of the rock musical "Hair"? Or that pits cartoonist Al Capp against a young revolutionary Communist? Or has actor-director James Earl Jones as its guest? Or lines up in a "square table" discussion on drugs, bitterly opposed points of view?

WANTED: A MOM OR DAD

THE HOLY FATHER'S MISSION AND TO THE ORIENTAL CHURCH

You are needed . . . to act as a Mom or Dad to an orphan in the Holy Land, Ethiopia, or India. The cost is very little. The satisfaction is great. More than half of the 1,400,000 refugees in the Holy Land are boys and girls. A great many are orphans. Some barely exist by begging for milk, food, clothing. Others are in the Holy Father's care - supported by the generous friends of Near East Missions . . . You can 'adopt' one of these children and guarantee him (or her) three meals a day, a warm bed, love and companionship and preparation to earn his own living. An orphan's support costs only $10 a month . . . $120 a year. Send us the first month's support and we will send your 'adopted' child's photo. You can write to him or her. The Sister who cares for your child will write to you, if the child cannot write yet. A close bond of love will develop. Please send the coupon with your offering today.
