

Two Obligations Means 2 Masses

Questions have arisen whether those who make use of the Saturday Mass privilege will, on Saturday, Aug. 15, be able to satisfy the holyday obligation that day and the Sunday obligation as well by attending the one Saturday evening Mass.

(Aug. 15 is the Feast of the Assumption, a holyday of obligation to attend Mass.)

On the question, the Sacred Congregation has replied—negative.

In other words, anticipating Sunday Mass on a Saturday evening does not fulfill the obligation of fulfilling a holyday obligation when the holyday falls on the same date. One Mass fulfills only one obligation.

The obligation of Mass on the holyday, Aug. 15, may be fulfilled by assistance at Mass on Friday evening, Aug. 14, if there is such an anticipated Mass scheduled, or by attending Mass on Saturday morning. If one attends only the evening Mass on Saturday, Aug. 15, thus fulfilling the holyday obligation, Sunday Mass also is required the next day.

The same will hold true for all similar Saturday holyday circumstances.
