

Ithaca Pastor Named To National Post

Ithaca—Father John S. Maloney, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church here and a World War II paratroop chaplain, has been elected national chaplain of the Legion of Valor.

The legion's membership comprises persons who have been cited "for acts of extraordinary heroism in connection with military or naval operations," or "for heroism of a specially distinguished character."

Father Maloney was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, highest award for valor next to the Congressional Medal of Honor, for extraordinary heroism in action in France in 1944.

He also merited the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in the historic Battle of the Bulge. He was a regimental chaplain in the famed 101st Airborne Division, retiring in 1945.

Another Rochester diocesan priest, who is a member of the Legion of Valor is Father Elmer W. Heindl, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Cato, and its mission, St. Thomas Church, Red Creek. Father Heindl, a seminary classmate of Father Maloney, also recently was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. He reported that 26 World War II chaplains and two who served in Korea had received this honor.

Reporter Gets CCD Lesson

By JOHN DASH

By 11 a.m. Thursday last, this Courier-Journal reporter wanted to crawl under his typewriter.

Seems that while doing research on the history of the diocesan CCD program, he neglected to take into consideration such national sources as the Saturday Evening Post, Sign Magazine and a half-hour TV show carried by the American Broadcasting Corporation.

Hoo boy!

And the good people of Fairport, the birthplace of the modern CCD, let him know it.

To set the record straight: Father Leonard Kelly, the pastor of Assumption Parish and founder and director of the Fairport School of Religion, is one of the major influences in the development of the CCD not only in this diocese, but throughout the nation.

More than 16 years ago, prompted by his vision of a critical shortage of nuns available to teach in parochial schools, the high cost and rapid turn over of lay teachers, the soaring costs of construction and maintenance of a parochial school, Father Kelley developed the Fairport Plan of establishing a catechetical center to form the Christian consciences of Catholic children in public schools.

Father Kelly's program, under the auspices of the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart, has been highly lauded.

Today more than 25 centers based on Father Kelly's plan have been set up in the diocese; and, according to Father Daniel Holland, diocesan director of CCD, "way more than a thousand all over the country. He's been all over the blessed country talking it up."
