Moiseyev Troupe Here Tonight

Rochester audiences will have the unique experience of being "let in" on some trade secrets when the world-famous Moiseyev Dance Company from Moscow is presented here Wednesday, Sept. 16, at 8:15 p.m. at the War Memorial.

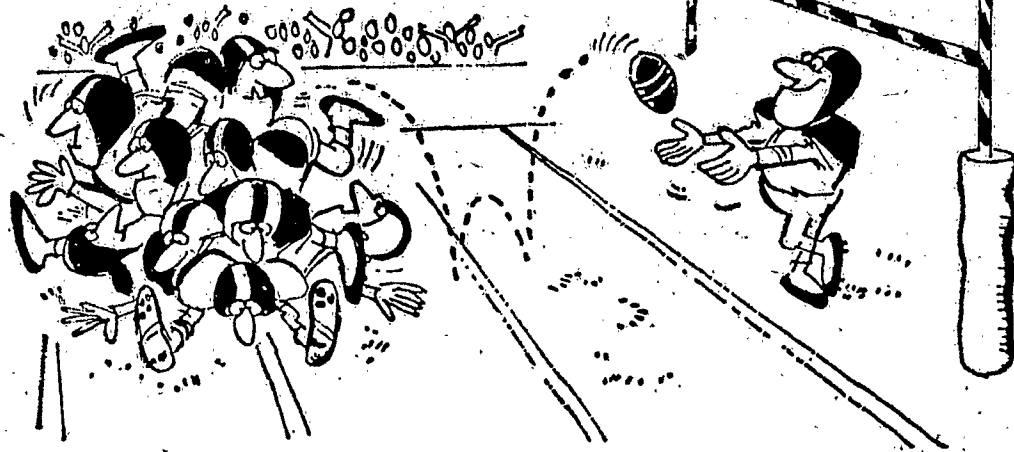

Igor Moiseyev, Director-Choreographer of the Company which moved critics to new highs of praise on its two previous visits here in 1958 and 1961, has planned a program to show how his dancers acquire not only perfect ballet technique but also unusual stamina, skill, speed and dramatic ability.

Moiseyev says that during the first half of the program all the vital ingredients of the Moiseyev Dance Company will be "mixed" before the eyes of the audience in a series of numbers ranging from the simplest to the most complicated types of folk dance.

New works are included in the second half of the evening. "Sunday," a dance sketch of pre-Revolutionary Russia, is peopled with characters from Chekhov's world. "Sanchakou" is a humorous Chinese dance-pantomime on an ancient legend. Two Polish numbers, "Kuyavek" and "Oberek" relate a courtship where the suitor, finding he cannot win his lady by gallantry, resorts to spectacular tricks to conquer her.
