

A Smile for Friends

Mrs. Josephine Rogers, a resident of St. Ann's Home for the Aged, accepts a bouquet from Mrs. Conrad Wolf, who visits the Home regularly as part of the Volunteers In People program of St. Ambrose parish. Mrs. Murray Franz, to the right, looks on. Both women assist at St. Ann's as weekly volunteers.

Salting The Earth

During the past few weeks we have witnessed demonstrations of many kinds striking out for peace, but specifically for an end to the war in Indo-China. Protest after protest has been brought to us through television, radio and newspapers. None better demonstrated the folly of war than the protest by the Vietnam veterans. The tragedy of broken bodies so easily expended, the discarding of honorable memorials of their service, the memory of those who would never return to a nation that so casually committed them to the nasty business of war, prodded the people to rethink the awful consequences of a world without peace.

Slogans of peace and justice

Tickets Plan Set for Family Night

Tickets have been distributed to parochial schools and CCD classes for Courier-Journal Family Night at Silver Stadium Wednesday, June 2, when the Red Wings play Louisville in a doubleheader.

Tickets should be returned Tuesday, May 25.

Bishop Joseph L. Hogan will participate in special activities planned for between games of the doubleheader. Both games will be seven innings and the first begins at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets for family night are being sold at a reduced price of $1 — half of which will go to the Red Wings and the other half to support sports activities of underprivileged children.

Interfaith Music Program Set

The Ecumenical Clergy Conference of Penfield will sponsor an interfaith sacred music program at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 23 at Faith Lutheran Church on Browncroft Boulevard, Penfield.

are bantered around loudly and too often violently. Our effort to find peace seems to conjure up the specter of conflict and violence. Violent actions appear to be setting the stage for a reaction of violence, and a great nation, begins to twist in the agony of more and more polarization and divisiveness.

Truly the events of the past decade have made all of us think more seriously of peace. The days of glorious armies marching into battle with flags flying and bugles blowing are past. The reality and tragedy of conflict has been made a part of practically every home where there is a television set. No longer will our nation be able to commit the young to battle without seeing the agony resulting from that commitment.

But to desire peace is not enough. Much has to be done to lay the ground work for a peaceful world. That is why the expression "Peace and Justice" should read "Justice and Peace."

When will we learn that peace will never come until men can experience justice? Every time we ignore the needs of disadvantaged peoples in our country or within the world, we sow the seeds of war. Every time we refuse to allow disadvantaged peoples the power and ability to rise to the fullness of their humanity, we sow the seeds of war. Every time we place a value on another person because of external appearances only, we sow the seeds of war.

On the night before His death, our Blessed Lord offered us peace which the world could not give, but on that same occasion He commanded His followers to love one another. Love begets justice — but without it there will be "Vietnams and Vietnams."

Dr. Colin Clark Speaks at Fisher

Dr. Colin Clark, famed Australian demographer and statistician, spoke in Rochester last week to more than 300 people at St. John Fisher College.

Invited here by the Rochester Right to Life Committee, Dr. Clark addressed himself to means of handling the population explosion.

He especially singled out for attack the Zero Population Growth Movement, headed by Dr. Paul Erlich. This movement would curb population by limiting families to one or two children.

"The problem is not to stop having children," Dr. Clark said. "The problem is how we distribute the children we do have."

He advocates a program of tax disincentives which would move industry and labor out of the cities into small communities more widely strewn through out the country.

Since 1968, he said, England has employed some of these ideas successfully.

He cited recent news stories from the Soviet Union which speak of that government's concern over a sharply declining birth rate especially in the area of Siberia.

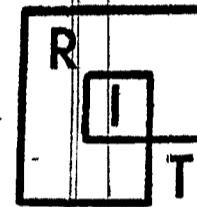

"Yes, and Communist China is very much aware of this development," he said.

The author of several books on economics and agriculture, Dr. Clark also is a fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford; of the Royal Statistical Society; of the Econometric Society and is a Member of the Academy of Agriculture of France.
