

100th Anniversary

Ordination Set For Five Jesuits

Three men from McQuaid Jesuit High School's first graduating class, the class of 1958, will be ordained here May 29 for the Society of Jesus. They are the first Jesuit priests to come out of the school, and the ordination will be the society's first in this diocese.

The class of five includes two men who have taught at McQuaid.

The McQuaid alumni are J. Peter Conroy, Paul W. Nochelski and Alfred E. Caruana, all of Rochester. The former teachers are John F. Walters of Buffalo and Richard Hunt of Syracuse.

Bishop Joseph L. Hogan will ordain them at 3 p.m. this Saturday in St. John the Evangelist Church, 2400 Ridge Road, West.

Rev. Mr. Conroy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Conroy of 438 Arnett Blvd. He entered the Jesuits in 1958 after his graduation from McQuaid. He holds a B.A. in English and an M.A. in Philosophy from Fordham University; a B.D. and a Ph.L. from Woodstock College and is doing graduate work in classics at the University of Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Conroy will celebrate his first Mass on Pentecost Sunday, May 30 in St. Augustine's Church.

Rev. Mr. Nochelski and Rev. Mr. Caruana entered the Jesuits after graduation from McQuaid and both were graduated from Bellarmine College in Plattsburgh, N.Y., where they spent two years in novitiate and two years of college. They were assigned to Loyola Seminary, the College of Philosophy and Letters of Fordham University.

Rev. Mr. Nochelski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Nochelski of Rochester, earned a B.A. and an M.A. in American history and in June will begin doctoral studies in educational administration. He will concelebrate his first Mass Sunday, May 30, at St. Stanislaus Church with Father Robert Hamm of Syracuse.

Rev. Mr. Caruana, son of Dr. Alfred E. and Mrs. Kathryn Caruana of Rochester, was awarded an A.B. in Sociology by Fordham in 1964, an M.A. in Sociology by St. John's University in 1965 and a Ph.L. by Ecumenism slowing up?

The Rushville Clinic belies that possibility as personnel from many religious backgrounds work together to assist the rural poor.

Courier-Journal staffer Laurence E. Keefe tells about it in words and pictures in this week's CENTERFOLD.

And speaking of hospital work, a special award was made to a candy stripper at St. James Hospital in Hornell. Our new correspondent there, Peggy Pease, describes the ceremony on PAGE 4B.

In the wake of the Hike for Hope happy news comes a further development. A diocesan priest, Father Daniel Torney, will shrove aboard Hope as chaplain. Page 2B.

The younger generation continues to make good news and one of our school reporters, Kim Knight, tells about her peers' work at St. Joseph's House of Hospitality. Youth Page, 11B.

With the Catholic and Protestant film offices dissociating themselves from the film rating system, (PAGE 11A)

the Courier-Journal has come up with a new feature to help movie-goers. Films are listed with the NCOMP ratings on PAGE 11A.

As for columns, Bishop Hogan continues his assessment of the recent U.S. Bishop' meeting on PAGE 3A.

Also on PAGE 3A, the Courier series on Mary concludes with an article by Father Paul J. Wohlrab, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel.

One of the best-read features of any newspaper is letters to the editor. The Courier prints its readers' contributions on PAGE 4A weekly.

In addition to the Jesuit ordination described on this page, the diocese is about to gain a new priest (1B) and honor an old one (1B).
