Church Bulletin Sharpens Appeal

Hornell — St. Ann's Church Sunday bulletins now have added appeal to parishioners because of their original cover designs.

Created by Richard Schieder, a parishioner, the designs are based on focal points of the church proper. Schieder so far has drawn, for bulletin covers, the statue of St. Ann and Blessed Mother at the side entrance of the church; the bell in the church tower, the cross on the steeple, and the pelican symbol which centers the main marble altar.

In charge of advertising for the bulletin are members of St. Ann's Parish Council — Joseph Bullock; Robert Argentieri, and Thomas Gibson.
