

Rockefeller Veto Dismays Catholic Charities Head

Father William G. Charbonneau, diocesan director of Catholic Charities, was "greatly saddened" by Gov. Rockefeller's decision to veto the bill that limited the period during which a natural parent could reclaim a child placed for adoption to 30 days.

"All of us in the adoptive field feel some protection should be given to the adoptive parents and child," Father said.

"We hoped the bill vetoed would give that protection."

Father Charbonneau explained that as it is now "great uncertainty exists which creates a problem as far as the agency is concerned, and there is not much protection to the rights of the child or the adoptive parents."

Judith Malone, of the Council of Adoptive Parents, also expressed disappointment with the governor's action.

She added, "We are certain, however, that the bill will be passed in subsequent legislation. There is need for this type of legislation to protect both adoptive families and the babies.

"Some families will continue to adopt, taking the risk," she continued, "but others will undoubtedly be deterred for fear of being hurt."

"Groups of adoptive parents from all over the state can now muster a significant vote," she said, adding that "Rockefeller's advisers in this matter have done him no favors."

Assemblyman Joseph Pisani (R-New Rochelle), who sponsored the bill and saw it quickly passed by the State Legislators, said he would resubmit the measure to the Legislature in 1972.

Reward Offered In Assault Case

A reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailant of a St. Agnes school girl is offered by the parents associated with the school.

The Monroe County Savings Bank at Southtown will accept contributions to the reward fund. Robert Beikirch, chairman, said money and pledges had been offered by several alumnae and others.

The student, Mary Lou Kuntz, of Gardiner Avenue, has been in critical condition at Strong Memorial Hospital since June 18. She had been beaten severely, apparently while studying in Genesee Valley Park on that examination week morning.

The Slot Man

The Fourth of July and where were the parades?

From downtown to Penfield we counted the flags and reached only 86.

Blandness can be hard to swallow.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, that never to himself has said, this is my own, my native land?" There are many in Toronto.

Compare it with Cinco de Mayo in Mexico or May Day in Moscow. Where were the parades?

The Fourth of July.

The Pentagon Papers.

"All men are created equal."

"Give us liberty or give me death."

"Yankee Doodle, do or die born on the Fourth of July."

Where was the rhetoric?

Flags flying upside down.

A United States senator crying.

Abortions, x-rated movies, peep shows.

Men in power, fearful of a free press.

Nearly 200 years after the Declaration of Independence, all men do not have equal rights in this, the greatest exponent of democracy the world has known.

People still hunger in a land of plenty.

The "Fourth" . . . another victim of the war?

Someone once said something to the effect that hard times produce great men. The times are here; where are the men?

Where are the Patrick Henrys? The Thomas Jeffersons? Even the George M. Cohans?

The Fourth of July. The birthday of the greatest concept of government yet devised by man.

And it was hardly celebrated.
