

Mercy Chapter

tant is the concept of service to others in the community."

One of the lessons of chapter this year has been an appreciation of the wisdom of Catherine McAuley.

"We've found her so contemporary that we've incorporated verbatim into our policies, or affirmations they are called, her two treatises on 'Union in Charity' and 'Humility,'" reported Sister Sullivan.

"Christian charity cannot be equated with Christian uniformity," observed Father Sebastian Falcone O.F.M., theological consultant to the Sisters of Mercy and chairman of chapter. "Although the Sisters disagreed about means, they were united concerning overall objectives."

At Chapter, the traditional watchwords of the Mercy order, "unity in essentials and diversity in non-essentials," seemed well-served.

Annual Mass For Altar Boys

Cato — The altar boys of ST. PATRICK's in Cato and ST. THOMAS in Fairhaven received their advancement pins at a mass celebrated on Monday, Aug. 16, at St. Patrick's.

Promoted to grand knight of the altar boys were Stephen Muhlneckel from St. Patrick's and Robert Skinner from St. Thomas.

An all-day outing for the altar boys followed at Roseland Park.

Royal Family

Queen Ivelisse Torres, left, reigned over last week's Puerto Rican Festival in Rochester. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Torres was joined at court by Junior King Domingo Martinez III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Martinez II; Junior Queen Bernadette Villanueva, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Villanueva; and Domingo's sister, Margarita, crown bearer.
