

Hornell Knights Ready New Home

By PEGGY PEASE

Hornell — The Knights of Columbus of Hornell is ready to move into its new home in a reconverted supermarket on Main Street. Their former hall burned down April 1, 1970.

The formal dedication and open house will probably be some time in the fall possibly November. The major part of the work on the main hall, the bar and club rooms, is nearly completed and work on sauna baths and exercise room is nearly finished.

In all, it cost about $175,000 to convert the building for organizational purposes. The 13,500 squarefoot main floor will seat 400 for dining or for weekly bingo. Adjoining is a lounge with room for 200 persons.

The building also will in-

"SHAME AND EMBARRASSMENT"

In his Mission Sunday Message for this year, Pope Paul says that he wishes "to confide to you, the whole body of the Catholic faithful—all of you, our collaborators in the divinely assigned task of making the Good News known—a matter which causes us shame and embarrassment."

This statement comes as a "surprise" after the hopeful words in the paragraph preceding it:

"We must invite all men to join to People of God, his Church, that ever-growing society of hope, which is able to look eagerly to the future without closing its eyes to the present . . . No, we are not 'ashamed' of the Gospel nor are your Pope and bishops ashamed to beg for the means by which the Gospel may be made known. If, then, you find them with begging bowls in their hands, beseeching alms of you for the love of God and neighbor, this will not surprise or scandalize you."

What then is the 'matter which causes us shame and embarrassment?' In the Pope's own words, it is this:

"We are unable to provide adequate support for the Church's missionaries, or to give sufficient assistance to the many good works of religion and love which they constantly undertake.

"These missionaries have made the commitment 'for life' to the Gospel. They go to the nations in our stead. They carry out on our behalf the command of the Master 'to preach the Gospel to every creature.' Nothing in our power to offer could ever repay our obligation to these men and women; but we must at least supply their daily bread and provide the other necessities which their various works demand."

However, the Pope doesn't leave us this "obligation" without giving us his own solution. He says, "For almost a century and a half, the organization of this support from the Catholic faithful has been entrusted to an enterprise of charity known as the Society for the Propagation of the Faith."

"After their donations have been gathered into one fund, they are distributed to the missions . . . providing for the daily necessities of our missionaries, building churches, schools, hospitals, seminaries and novitiates; feeding the hungry, relieving suffering, and bringing emergency assistance in times of disaster."

May we join with the Pope and turn unashamed to you with begging bowls in our hands "to urge each and every one of the Catholic faithful to make yet greater sacrifices for the Faith."
