

Health Insurance Proponents

Two diocesan representatives are members of the steering committee of the Rochester Area Coalition for National Health Insurance. Father William Charbonneau, director of Catholic Charities, and Sister Frances Sweeney of the Office of Human Development met recently with other members of the committee, from left, Alex Gaby, editor of the Labor News; Mitch Kaidy, public relations director; James Colombo, committee chairman and secretary-treasurer of the Retail Clerks Union. A full meeting is scheduled Nov. 19 to pursue the goal of passage of a national health insurance law.

Resounding 'NO' Shelves Draft On Canon Law

Vatican City—(RNS)—Cardinal Pericle Felici, president of the Pontifical Commission for the Revision of Canon Law, told the Synod of Bishops that Catholic bishops throughout the world had overwhelmingly rejected an amended draft of a so-called "Lex Fundamentalis" (fundamental law or constitution) of the Church.

The document, drafted by a committee headed by the cardinal, has been under withering fire from canon lawyers and theologians around the world.

They have scored "triumphalistic" language, a tendency to identify the Church with the hierarchy, alleged opposition to the spirit of the Second Vatican Council and the "disastrous" effects it could have on ecumenism.

Several months ago, the document was sent to the world's bishops with an invitation to submit their comments to Rome.

The great majority of bishops who responded favored some kind of codified constitution for the Church, but objected to the present draft document, the Cardinal reported.
