Showtime Chases Winter Doldrums

By ROBERTA KOWBA

Bishop Kearney High School

After the winter holidays comes a lull in social activities at most schools. But at Bishop Kearney High School, the parents of students have taken up the slack for the past five years.

Their annual musical, Showtime, keeps activities in high gear from September until February, when the program is presented to the public.

Showtime will be on this week, Thursday, Feb. 3, through Saturday, at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Showtime '72 is a musical production including the melodies of Cole Porter and selections from the Broadway show "Guys and Dolls."

The two main objectives of Showtime are the replenishment of the Bishop Kearney Tuition Emergency Fund and enjoyment.

The fund initiated by the parents' clubs enables needy students to continue at Kearney in case of the death of a parent or parents.

Enjoyment is there for all who are even slightly connected with Showtime. The actual participants on stage as well as those behind the scenes share in both enjoyment and experience.

Directors of the show are Brother J. L. Heathwood and Raymond Shahin. Assistant musical director is Mrs. Joyce Shahin and choreographer Louis Piazza. Faculty moderators for the program are Brothers S. A. Ferro and D. S. Adams; Sister Yvonne and Andrew Korts.

Crash Kills 'Golconda' Bishop

Bogota (RNS) — Bishop Gerardo Valencia Cano, 54, vicar apostolic of Buenaventura, founder of the controversial Golconda Movement of "leftist" Colombian clergy, was killed in a plane crash in the Andes of northern Colombia on Jan. 21.

All 35 persons aboard a government-owned Satena Airlines DC-3 were killed when it crashed and burned.

The Golconda Movement, termed radical and anti-government, is made up of Catholic and Protestant clergy and laity. It reportedly works for non-violent change in the social order. However, the group, named after a farm where it first met in July 1968, with 49 Catholic priests attending, has been under constant fire from the Colombian government and from "conservative" Catholic groups for alleged "socialist" tendencies.

Bishop Valencia Cano, the movement's philosophical leader and most authoritative spokesman, who had denied any Marxist tendencies linked to the movement, had attributed underdevelopment in Latin America to a colonial social structure supported by "foreign groups," such as the U.S. government and U.S. business interests.

The Rochester Free Philharmonic?

That's right—and that's one big reason it costs so much.

This winter... last winter... and hopefully next winter, more than 30,000 grammar school kids will attend free concerts in the Eastman Theatre. Thousands of high school students will discover where Blood, Sweat & Tears and the Beatles got some of their coolest ideas when they check out a free concert by the Rochester Philharmonic as it makes the rounds of city and suburban schools. What about the college crowd? This season the Rochester Philharmonic will perform at numerous New York—and even out-of-state colleges.

We're talking about Education Outreach. This season 74 out of the 144 concerts (up from 105 last season, by the way) given by the Rochester Philharmonic will be for young people. So, if the Rochester Philharmonic hasn't reached you, chances are it's reached your kids. Can you think of a better reason for reaching for your checkbook?

This season, more than ever before, your Rochester Philharmonic has gone public. Free concerts are given in downtown and suburban shopping malls... at Red Wing baseball games and would you believe at an Amerks hockey game! And for years, Eastman Kodak employees have been enjoying free lunch-hour concerts by the Rochester Philharmonic.

Outreach reaches into the summer, too. The "season" is no longer merely October through April. Free concerts have been flocked to by as many as 10,000 in Highland Park Bowl, other Monroe County parks, the Newark Rose Gardens and in Letchworth Park.

Like they say: The Best Things in Life Are Free. So, won't you join the Rochester Civic Music Association—the largest of its kind in the country—by making a generous pledge of support for the Rochester Free Philharmonic?
