

Knights, Masons Working Together

Geneva — Local Knights of Columbus and Masons have organized together a group to visit the Geneva General Nursing Home on a regular basis.

The group visited the home earlier this month to find out what activities and entertainment the residents would like. Members interested in this program may join it through Irving Fuller, master of Ark Lodge; Robert Peters, grand knight of Council 272, or Anthony O'Donnell of the "Nursing Home Corps."

Knights To Have Parade

Eugene J. Finucane, the Knights of Columbus state program director will represent James A. Ruh, the group's state deputy at the pre-game activities of the Knights scheduled for June 24 at Silver Stadium.

The activities include a parade from the grounds of Our Lady of Perpetual Help School. In the parade will be the Rochester Junior Crusaders. Honor guards from various organizations with their flags, colors and banners will be followed by city, county and state officials.

The parade is expected to begin at 6:40 p.m. The game will pit Rochester against Richmond.

St. Francis Adorns Books

A picture of St. Francis of Assisi will grace the textbooks of more than 60,000 Catholic school pupils in September.

The picture and the "Prayer for Peace" are on book covers donated by the Rochester Council of the Knights of Columbus, outgoing Grand Knight A. K. Bennett said last week.

Father Daniel Brent, diocesan superintendent of schools, gratefully welcomed the gift saying "We eat 'em up like hot dogs at a baseball game."

"The problem of book covers," he said, "is a perennial one." "It is a real substantial contribution to the schools," he said of the Knights' action.

HOPE CHECK

The Rochester Council of the Knights of Columbus has presented a check for $978 to the Hike for Hope. Council members had staffed the Cobbs Hill check point during the hike.
