Holy Cross Volunteers

The Parish Council Social Action Committee of Holy Cross Parish sponsored a successful collection drive to aid flood victims. A collection drive to aid flood victims. A collection center was set up at Holy Cross School to collect food, clothing and bedding from people of the Charlotte area. Volunteers worked several hours sorting and packing the goods before they were taken to the flood area by trucks provided by the diocesan Human Development Office.

Annunciation Rushes in Cash, Food

In a spontaneous response to the plight of those caught in the floods in the Southern Tier, the parishioners of Annunciation Church sent 1000 pounds of canned food by truck to Corning Sunday night. The canned goods had been collected for a forthcoming parish festival.

A truck belonging to Sam Amatore was manned by parishioners and Father William Hickey, associate pastor. After being cleared by Civil Defense authorities at Bath, they proceeded to Corning. Father Hickey said that two churches, St. Vincent and St. Patrick were "devastated beyond belief."

Father Hickey in place of the pastor, Monsignor Simonetti, who was away, asked from the pulpit Saturday night and Sunday morning that this be done "quickly and quietly so that the aid might get where it was most needed." The parish also took in $1150 in the flood relief second collection.
