

Conditions were primitive; an instrument case from the turn of the century was simple and plain, as was, below right, the sterilizing equipment. But time has not bowed the spirit of Sister de Sales shown below with her own nurse, Sister Kathleen Ann.

Sister de Sales, right, in original operating room.

A ward in the old hospital had few frills.

This portrait of Sister de Sales hangs in the foyer of the new building dedicated to her name, and shows her in her prime.
