

Retired Couples Selling Homes To Follow the Sun on Wheels.

By JACK VINCENT

"Let's sell the house and get away from it all" is a sentiment more and more retired couples are acting on. With early retirements and larger pensions on the increase, a lot of people find they now have the time and wherewithal to "chuck" the house, the lawnmower and snowblower and fill the urge to travel.

Many are electing to do it with a motorhome. Motorhomes are self-propelled vehicles which offer all the comforts of home and are an ideal way to travel.

As one retired couple in the Grand Teton National Park put it, "The motorhome allows us to go where we want, when we want and to stay as long as we want."

"My husband and I enjoy the flexibility our motorhome gives us," another lady reported. "We can winter in Florida or Southern California, or both. During the other months we travel to various places in the north and occasionally Canada, taking time along the way to make extended visits with our son and daughter and the grandchildren. Sometimes we even take them along."

While some people maintain small apartments to which they return, others find that the comforts of a modern motorhome make any kind of permanent residence superfluous.

"Frankly, we found that the amount of time we spent in the apartment just didn't warrant the expense," commented a man touring New England with his wife. "Besides, we retired to get away from all the bother of home ownership."

Doesn't motorhome living make a storage problem?

"Not so," said his wife. "A motorhome has plenty of space, providing you're willing to take the time to use it properly. Of course you also find that you no longer collect a lot of unnecessary, useless things. Besides, the fun of being able to travel, meet new friends, and see distant places makes up for any minor inconvenience."

Indeed the arrangements and sizes of the motorhomes are as diverse as the people who own them. They range in size from 18 feet all the way up to Greyhound bus lengths of 45 feet.
