

Fedor emphasizes attention to detail in the planning of particular celebrations.

Sister Margaret Mary Mattle, RSM, secretary of the liturgy commission, raises a point during a workshop discussion. In photo at right, Bruce Carson, chairman of the Blessed Sacrament Parish Council, talks about prayer groups.

orate Together

people at St. John Fisher College for a weekend Liturgy Institute.

According to Sister Margaret Mary Mattle, RSM, secretary for the diocesan liturgy commission, the weekend's primary aim was to spur the development of parish worship committees and to bring diocesans together for shared prayer experience.

Father Robert Hovda, a nationally known lecturer on the liturgy, was also present to speak on various problems in liturgical expression.

Workshops in the practice of worship were the staple of the weekend, with discussions ranging from community faith development to planning liturgies for youth.

Father Hovda, second from right, sits in on a workshop session. The photo series below shows Nina David in an interpretive dance she performed at the offertory of Bishop Hogan's afternoon Mass.

