

At the May meeting of the firefighters Holy Name Society at the downtown Holiday Inn, Father Bradler, in his dress uniform, took time out to pose with friends Richard Neary, past president of the society, Richard D. Imperio, vice president and Gary Isaacs, president.

DeVola, [left], Richard C. Evert

George Grace drives Truck 17.

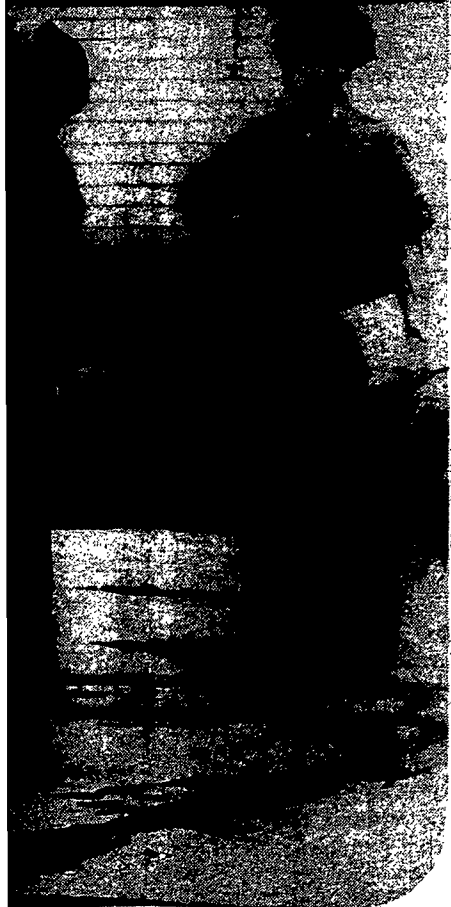

Anthony DeChario glances back for a last look as his company prepares to leave the scene of a fire.

Up, up and over.

is the only way to go.

fighters at the Fire and Police they haven't suffered metal lauser, [far left], walks over to glove on], superintendent of rs, [background], steady the k is level on the bottom and ifer watches from a distance.

ect of ladder no matter which way it's measured.

Clarence Bradler backs his truck into the fire house as Father looks on.