

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Sarah Child

* When the tomatoes are ripening by the bushful and there's nary a canning lid to be found in any one of six super markets

* When you decide to take a trip in a station wagon with a faulty windshield wiper and it rains for the first time in six days

* When your second grader remembers to tell you he needs five dried nature specimens ten minutes before he leaves for school and it's still raining

* When your four-year-old breaks her leg while her father is out of town

* When you invite an old friend over for coffee and discover all you've got in the house is some kind of instant that resembles the mud drinks you made as a child

* When you discover the fashions for the season would make Twiggy look fat

* When you find you're still sticking to the kitchen floor after you've mopped it with one of those miracle detergents touted on television

* And when you find you're exploding over situations that are definitely molehills and not mountains. THEN you know things could be better

* When you find you are more resourceful in a panic situation than you imagined you might be

* When a neighbor spends a whole day chauffeuring you and the child with the fracture from pediatrician to x-rays to orthopedics, providing an upbeat mood the whole time

* When five other neighbors all call to see what other aid they can give

* When the two older children think up ways on their own of amusing their temporarily immobile sister

* When doctors, technicians and nurses are even more patient and gentle than you had hoped for

* When a friend volunteers to sit for two hours so you can keep an appointment and then stays to share tuna on stale bread and several cups of coffee

* And when the office calls to tell you that yes your husband will be home as originally scheduled. THEN you know that things are definitely looking up

Parish Census Starts Sunday

More than 150 women from Blessed Sacrament Parish, Oxford Street, will begin a house-to-house census in approximately 100 streets Sunday, Sept. 29. Purpose of the census is to obtain general information from baptized Catholics only, according to Father John P. Norris, pastor.

Cochairmen are Mrs. Jane Gillis, Mrs. Muriel Cotter and Mrs. Joan Abbott.

Data from the canvass, Father Norris noted, will benefit not only the parish priests but also the parish council as it plans its autumn programs.

Correction

A sculptural representation of Christ crucified that was moved last week from the former St. Andrew's building to Becket Hall is a memorial to the late Louis Hohman. It was given to the minor seminary by his associates in Star Markets and by members of the Hohman family.

BISHOP'S MASS

Rev. Joseph L. Hogan is scheduled to celebrate Mass at St. Mary's at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6, and to bless the newly redecorated church.
