Bishop Joseph L. Hogan, center, addresses pilgrims at Sacred Heart Cathedral during diocesan pilgrimage Sunday. At left is Auxiliary Bishop John E. McCafferty, diocesan director for the Holy Year; Father Michael Conboy assists Bishop Hogan and at right is Auxiliary Bishop Dennis W. Hickey. About 1,100 pilgrims packed the Cathedral for the affair. Bishop McCafferty said that the huge success of the pilgrimage belongs to all of those from throughout the diocese who worked "so long and so hard" to make it work. Parishioners from throughout the diocese attended and were not seated by parish inside the Cathedral to provide the "symbol of mingling as one people of the diocese," Bishop McCafferty explained.

Rabbi Judea Miller of Temple B'rith Kodesh sounds the Shofar opening the day's service. The instrument, a ram's horn, is traditionally used in Jewish worship to call the congregation to prayer.
