Helping Hands

Mrs. Pat Sailer helps Margaret DeMaso to some modeling clay during a parent-teacher-student session at Holy Rosary school. The Early Education Program provides instruction for mothers as well as the pre-school for four-year-olds. While the children are learning socialization skills, their mothers are learning more about the child's education and Christian family living principles. The program also gives mothers the opportunity to take turns in the classroom working with the teachers and children.

A Tribute To Neighbor

Editor:

Margaret Kennedy is dead. She has gone home to the God she served so long and so generously. Her address was given as Newton Towers. I would have written it under a heading, "Margaret Kennedy — A Tower."

It was my privilege to know her as a true friend, a zealous volunteer and an ardent lover of God, his church, her family and friends.

As a daughter, with unusual cheerfulness, she alone cared for and loved her mother without a word of complaint for many years.

To Catholic Family Service and the Ladies of Charity, her hours of conscientious, excellent and loyal service were innumerable. To Margaret went much of the credit for the countless details of the complicated preparations for the Annual Report Meetings of the Catholic Family Service.

It was the same on the various religious, civic and Good Neighbor Projects of the Ladies of Charity and Catholic Youth Organization.

Once when she was blessed with some extra financial means, she remembered every one — except herself. The church, the missions, family and less affluent friends were among the recipients.

When her health failed and much physical activity was impossible, she did not give herself up to self-pity. She still found "ways" to help those less fortunate than herself. She did not lose her faith in God and man.

In my memory, Margaret Kennedy will always be a "Tower" of Christian faith, a zealous sharer of herself and hers.

With St. Francis de Sales, she believed, "That the same everlasting Father, who cares for you today, will take care of you tomorrow and every day."

Fighting Inflation Can Be Mouthy or It Can Be Active... We Vote for Active!

Barber Conable, your Congressman, hasn't forgotten where he came from. Some people call it the boondocks; Conable calls it home. And he knows what we're thinking because he spends almost every weekend among us, participating in our activities, learning how we feel about things.

Nowhere is Barber's interest more important than in the war against inflation. As a Congressional leader and a member of the Joint Economic Committee, he was on the Steering Committee for the President's Summit Conference on Inflation. Here's what he came up with:

Long-term discipline by Congress to keep federal spending down and get the federal government out of the money markets; American leadership in knocking down international price-fixing by cartels in such vital areas as oil; expanded anti-trust powers to combat price increases resulting from monopoly; tax rebates for modest income families to provide real spendable income instead of inflation-provoking wage pressures; contingency measures, such as housing, money and public service jobs, to take up the slack in jobs.

And can you think of any other Congressional leader with the guts to go to the President of the United States — face to face — and say forget the gas tax increase, it won't wash!

That's our Congressman and yours! Hit that Conable lever first on Election Day... please!

This is action for you in Washington!

Conable!
