

The fists fly in fun for Betsy Inglis and Sister Rosalinda as Father McGoldrick pulls on his pipe.

Sisters Margaret Ann Collins, Diane Branch and Rita Heberle and Father McGoldrick play Napoleon for the camera.

divided over liturgical and philosophical issues and has left the parish's members reconciled and dialoging.

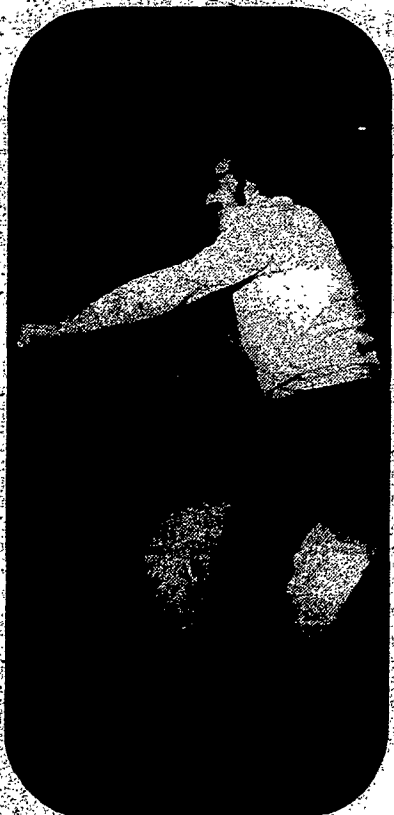

Sister Rosalinda pointed to another feature of MBW, that it establishes no permanent structures itself, unlike other renewal groups which set up ongoing organizations. "We're self effacing," she said. "Our purpose is to help increase unity wherever we are."

Father William Gordinier, co-pastor with Father Walter Wainwright, feels the retreat "went over very well — enthusiastically received. It gave us an opportunity to meet and share our love for Jesus, and a chance to share what we believed with the community." He noted that the team brought about "a real renewal of the community spirit" in his parish.

MBW tries to get everyone involved in the program. At St. Joseph's, teens and confirmation classes babysat for children of retreatants, and adults unable to make the retreat itself helped with preparing and serving meals for the weekend sessions.

Sisters Gemma and Rosalinda lead the group in prayer and song.

Catan and Andrew enjoying meal.

Father Wainwright and Andrew Yesul play motorcycle.

Jennifer and Robert Darlak enjoy the hugging.

Joseph Chinelly, Paul Spindler and Deacon Thomas Mull share some of their attitudes and experiences.