Car engine is no mystery to Nazareth mechanics Anna Bizok and Marianne Alliet.

Need Your Car Repaired?

By JOAN M. SMITH

I am familiar with only two workable parts of an automobile — the accelerator and brakes. If anything goes wrong with the rest of the vehicle I yell for the nearest auto service department!

Not so with Nazareth sophomores Anna Bizok and Marianne Alliet who are enrolled in the Rochester City School District's auto mechanics course. Every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon the girls go to the City radiators and mufflers.

What decided the girls to choose this particular vocational learning experience? "I like cars," explained Marianne, "and this was a chance to work with them."

According to Anna she's always been interested in automobiles and decided to find out what makes them run.

At this point, the young mechanics aren't planning to make this type of work their career. It is more for their personal use when they become car owners. As Anna commented, "The repairs cost so much."

The girls' families were openminded about the venture. "My mother thought it was a great idea," beamed Marianne, but both mechanics lament the fact they haven't yet been able to apply their mechanical knowledge to the family cars.

Neither girl had any qualms about taking a course which so far has been dominated by the male student. In the beginning, Anna acknowledged, she sensed the usual, "Ah!ah! a girl — she doesn't know what she's doing." This isn't the case any longer as their fellow mechanics see Marianne's and Anna's efficiency in pursuing all jobs, no matter the grime and grease.

There certainly is no doubt the girls know their business. Marianne capably explained the art of changing spark plugs. "It's no problem," she said, "if you use the right wrench — a torque wrench." As I know less about wrenches than I do about cars, I suggested to the girls that if they ever decide to open a garage I would be their best customer.

Nazareth Plans Musical

Nazareth Academy will celebrate "Music in Our School's Day" on March 18. The purpose is to focus public attention on the goals and achievements of the musical education programs in schools.
