THE OPEN WINDOW

Fr. Louis Hohman

Dear Father Hohman,

Some time ago I read in your column where you were having some kind of dispute about whether the majority of Americans believe in abortion. I recall that you said that you didn't really have statistics but went through some complicated process (which incidentally was not very convincing to me) to show that the majority of Americans did indeed accept the idea of legalized abortion or the morality thereof.

Recently I received in the mail "An open letter to all Americans: What Do People Really Think About Abortions?" May I quote some of it to you?

"The best way to find out is to ask them — but evidently it isn't that simple. On April 8 the New York Times carried a story (page 7) headlined, "Abortion Poll Finds Public Evenly Split". It reported a recent Gallup Poll on the U.S. Supreme Court's pro-abortion decisions of Jan. 22, 1973. Said the Times, "The survey indicated that 47% of the American people favored the court's decision and 44% opposed it. The survey was based on 1,582 adults.

"Gallup's question was, 'The United States Supreme Court has ruled that a woman may go to a doctor to end pregnancy at any time during the first three months of pregnancy. Do you favor or oppose this ruling?'

"Our question is: How can you take a poll on abortion without using the word? And how accurate would it be? We decided to find out. We commissioned Sindlinger & Co., a highly respected opinion research firm to do the job. First Sindlinger asked 1,653 people (a nationwide representative sampling, like Gallup's, only bigger) the exact same question Gallup asked. The results were worse than Gallup's: 45.9% favored the Court's ruling, 39.5% opposed it, the following week we did the same thing to another 1,653 people. Only this time we changed Gallup's wording 'go to a doctor to end pregnancy to go to a doctor to have an abortion. The results were surprising. The results now showed 48.7% OPPOSED the Court, 41% favored, only 5.9% refused to answer with 4.4% undecided."

To make a long story short, Father, it seems at best to be a very dangerous assertion that the majority of Americans are not against the Court ruling. I thought you'd like to know.

Sincerely,
B.C.

Dear B.C.,

Thank you very much. I hope this will enlighten our readers and correct any misapprehensions I have caused in the past.

Redemptorist Fathers To Run 'French' Church

The Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer will assume the administration of Our Lady of Victory Parish, located on Pleasant Street in Rochester, on the feast of St. Joseph, March 19.

Last October fire destroyed the interior of St. Joseph's Church and rectory, also in downtown

Deaths

Sr. Dolorosa

Sister Mary Dolorosa Lundergan, a Sister of Mercy for 74 years, died March 3, 1975, at the Mercy Motherhouse on Blossom Road. She was 94 years old.

The Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated Mar. 5 at St. Patrick's, Elmira.

Sister Dolorosa taught grades 1-6 in schools of the diocese for 55 years.

For 36 years, 1919-1955, she taught the first grade at St. Patrick's, her home parish in Elmira. When she retired in 1955, she lived at St. Patrick's another 6 years before moving to the Motherhouse in Rochester in 1961.

Other teaching assignments included St. Mary's, Rochester, for 11 years; Holy Cross, Rochester; St. Ann's, Hornell; St. Mary's, Corning, and St. Cecilia's, Elmira.

Sister Dolorosa had specialized in art at St. Agnes' Institute and in drawing at the old Rochester Athenaeum and Mechanics Institute.

Her parents were born in Ireland, her father in County Limerick, and her mother in County Tipperary.

One nephew, Edward Lundergan, of Columbus, Ohio, survives.

Rochester, where the Redemptorist Fathers had ministered for more than 140 years. Since the fire, they have conducted services in the gymnasium of the school next to the Church, leased by SUNY of Brockport.

In announcing the agreement, Father Michael F. Conboy, information officer of the diocese, stated: "The decision of the Redemptorist Fathers to minister to the religious needs of the parishioners and the faithful who frequent Our Lady of Victory Church was reached after much prayer, in-depth thought and discussion, and after a thorough analysis of the planning studies of the immediate geographic area where both churches are located." He added that the agreement, originally presented by Father Joseph L. Kerins, C.S.S.R., Provincial of the Redemptorist Fathers, was discussed with both parish personnel and community leaders.

An option in the agreement allows for future re-evaluation of the situation.

'Bridge' Names Director

Bridge Volunteers/Associates Inc., a program formulated by the Western New York State Council of Churches to assist former prison inmates in their readjustment to life in the community, announced last week the appointment of DeWitt Lee Jr. as executive director.

Lee served more than 14 years in New York State correctional facilities. He was pardoned conditionally by former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in February, 1973. Lee was the first president of the Auburn inmate Jaycees. He completed correspondence courses in business administration and law, accounting, and real estate and college-level courses in English, sociology, and literature. Currently he is a student at SUNY

Alternate Diet Supper May Help World's Hungry

Newark — The Human Development Committee of St. Michael's Parish, in order to show how Americans can help alleviate world hunger, held an Alternate Diet Supper recently at the church.

According to a spokesman for the group, the idea was "to introduce protein alternatives to interested people." Each family was asked to bring a meatless dish to pass. "All were surprised at the variety of tasty dishes," noted Linda Tracy, a member of the committee.

Following the supper, the families met to form a food buying club, in which members would buy grains, honey, molasses, nuts and dried fruits in wholesale quantity and then distribute them among club members.

It is the hope of St. Michael's HDC, Ms. Tracy said, that other families will form such clubs.

Ms. Tracy further noted that by substituting other high protein foods for meats in the United States there will be more grain available to alleviate the food crisis elsewhere in the world.

While three and one half ounces of beef contains 27 grams of protein, she pointed out, the same amount of Swiss cheese contains 28 grams; flounder, 30 grams; dried milk, 26 grams; soy flour, 43 grams; tuna fish, 29 grams.

Many other foods have comparable protein value.

Ms. Tracy also provided two recipes, one for a Cheddar Cheese Pie and one for a Soybean spread, to introduce persons interested in meat substitutes, to other sources of protein.

Cheddar Cheese Pie
Crust:
2 cups flour
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 tsp. salt
2/3 cup water

Combine flour and salt. Stir in cheese and water. Knead mixture, adding flour as needed until firm.

Roll out thin and place in a well oiled 9 inch pie plate.

Filling:
1 cup canned peas
1 cup canned corn
1/3 cup Ricotta cheese
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 tblsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 cup wheat germ

In a bowl, combine all the ingredients except the wheat germ. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Spoon filling into crust. Sprinkle the wheat germ on top. Bake 30 minutes, and serve hot.

Soybean Soybean Spread
2 cups ground or mashed cooked soybeans.

Combine the mash with chopped celery, onions, mayonnaise, salt, pepper, parsley and oregano to please the palate. The spread may be used for both crackers and sandwiches.
