

Science Fair Set at Fisher

Chemical shows, a tour of a "rat-mobile", a computer you can operate, laser demonstrations and glass blowing, are only a small sampling of the more than 100 exhibits planned for the more than 4,500 students expected to attend the Science Explorations Days at St. John Fisher College on May 21 and 22.

The two-day show, sponsored by the Science Teachers Association of New York State (STANYS), will attract students from grades 7-12 from the Rochester area.

The Science Exploration Days will consist of lectures and demonstrations by faculty members from the Rochester area colleges, as well as representatives from industry and various scientific organizations. The companies represented include, General Electric, IBM, Xerox, Eastman Kodak, Sybron, RC&E, and Wards.

There will be a special evening program, open to the public, on Wednesday, May 21, from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Community groups, families, and science enthusiasts are invited to visit the College and wander through the over 100 exhibit areas.

A highlight of the evening program is the nationally famous This Atomic World show, presented by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. The lecture-demonstration will explore the applications of radioisotopes in agriculture, industry, medicine and research.
