

Scottie doesn't care if his hands are dirty.

This faucet will quench your thirst and cool your feet.

DAY CAMP!

Photos by Susan McKinney
Text by Bonita Baldwin

For youngsters not in day camp Charles House offers other summer time recreational programs. A half-day activities program provides a shortened day camp schedule for the same 6-12 age group. Miss McCarthy said that more than 200 are participating from two different sites, Charles House and St. Peter and Paul School.

Twenty-two boys aged 13-15 participate afternoons and evenings in advanced day camp. This group gives a half day of service to senior citizens in the neighborhood each week. They plan to spend one week camping in the Adirondack Mountains.

Two mornings each week Charles House operates the Tots and Teens program. In this project community teenagers supervise tots' play in different parks.

Both Miss McCarthy and Miss Perry described their staffs as racially and culturally mixed. Both said that they like to hire youth from the neighborhood. Miss Perry reported that this year most of the junior counselors live nearby. Eleven junior counselors at Charles House are participating in a work program funded by Action for a Better Community.

Advanced campers Alvin Johnson and David Fead pose with counselor Roger Hinds.

Decorate it, then eat it!

It's craft time in the park.

The race is on!

Fair ball!