

and Rap Around Rap Around Rap Around

Father Lawrence Gross and his Bishop Kearney helpmates who are Brian Reilly, Joe Chimera, Kathy Blackwood, Ann D'Angelo, Joween Wilke, and Ray McDonald work to pack, for distribution to needy families, food donated by BK students.

Photo by Susan McKinney

Thirteen St. Agnes seniors celebrated Christmas in the Medieval tradition by attending a party given by the Advance Placement English teacher, Mrs. Vicki Kelly. The girls prepared a medieval dinner and then went caroling in the feudal costumes they designed. From left: Paula Meade, a nun; Marcy Meyering, court jester; Eileen Root as a monk, and Cynthia Miller as a character from the Canterbury Tales.

Photo by Ben Susso

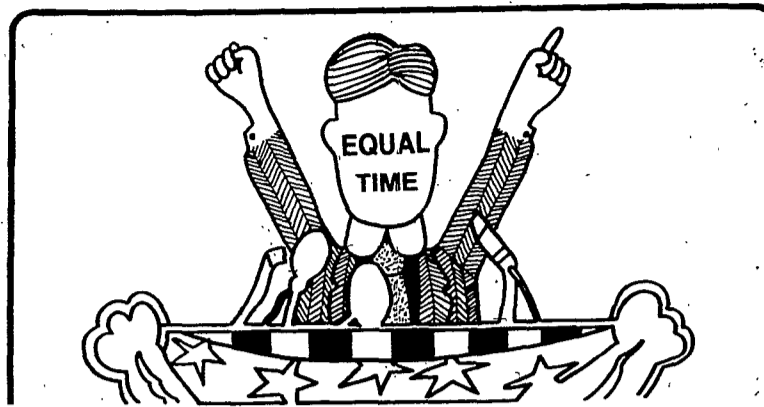

Notre Dame students lighting advent wreath in chapel are: Fiona O'Connor, Kathy Hull, Mark Smith, Tom Bamford, Paula Tuite, Delores Pepin (kneeling), Debbie Lopatofsky.

Aquinas received the festive look of the holiday season as students decorated halls with Christmas trees. Above John Bunce, and Dave Fratta add their artistic touches.

Photo by Susan McKinney

What is your Christmas wish for the world?

DESALES

Steve Visco, senior, basketball

"I wish that everybody would give their time to be able to be with friends, reach out to each other and share their wishes and ideas so they can understand each other."

John Buckley, senior, basketball

"I wish that everybody could take the time out from their problems and enjoy their family and friends. If I were Santa Claus I would make sure there would be a gift for everyone."

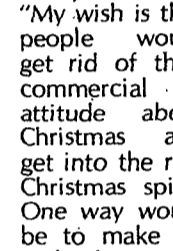

Tom Ninestine, freshman, football team captain

"I wish that people would all realize their faults, and realize that even if they think they can't do anything for the world they should at least try. If I were Santa Claus for one Christmas I would try to help the world by bringing joy to people."

Ellen Monahan, sophomore, volleyball

"My wish is that people would get rid of their commercial attitude about Christmas and get into the real Christmas spirit. One way would be to make up with their enemies. If I were Santa Claus I'd make sure I would call one of my friends who I hadn't talked with in a long time."

Kevin Anderson, freshman

"I wish that instead of everyone thinking of presents they would think of Christ. If I were Santa Claus for this Christmas I'd make sure that the poorest people all over the world would have a Merry Christmas."

Debbie Verzella, junior, class president

"I would wish the whole world would have everything it needed to be happy. If I were Santa Claus I would try to make people happy and give them the little things they want."

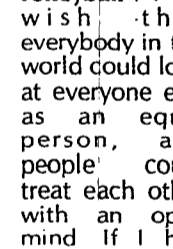

Sally Walsh, sophomore, cheerleader

"My wish is that there would be peace all over the world and everybody could forget all their problems and make each other happy. If I were Santa Claus I would cheer up the people who don't have any families like those in the nursing homes."

Andrea Venuti, sophomore, volleyball

"I wish that everybody in the world could look at everyone else as an equal person, and people could treat each other with an open mind. If I had the magic power on Christmas I would do away with discrimination."

Academy Nominee

McQuaid senior Michael H. Lynch was named by Rep. Frank Horton as one of 34 students to compete for an appointment to the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

A Christmas retreat was one of the special ways in which Nazareth students projected the true meaning of the season. Lighting the advent wreath are: Roxanne Laduca, Eleanor Wilber, Sara Solawn, Rene Spells, Rosetta Spataro, Ann Moynihan, Mary Robach, and Donna DiPrima. The wreath was made by the liturgy committee.

Photo by Ben Susso