JA Honors Business Enthusiasts

Cardinal Mooney, Nazareth Academy and Mercy students received special honors at the eighth annual Junior Achievement Future Unlimited Banquet on May 4 at the Dome Arena. This event honored the 1336 students who participated in this year's JA program to learn about business through the practical experience of forming and operating their own companies.

Suzanne Wall, named President of the Year, is a Cardinal Mooney senior and has been a JA member for two years and president of the King Dyno-mite Co. counseled by Rochester Products. She is a Stella Maris camp counselor, a Student Council representative, and a member of the Mooney field hockey team. Her plans include a four-year nursing course at Niagara University.

Anne stated that the greatest benefit of belonging to the JA organization for her was "getting to work with other people and getting the most out of everything you try to do."

Mercy senior Jean Ver Hoven, Junior Business Woman of the Year and winner of a $500 scholarship from the Xerox Management Association, has been in JA and has worked for the Delva Co. counseled by Gleason Works, for three years. She also is a member of the aviation branch of the Rochester Products Explorer Post and has taken a course in engineering graphics at Rochester Institute of Technology to prepare for her future career in engineering.

Special awards went to Nazareth seniors Pat Curtin, Michelle Murray and Janice Columbe and junior Barb Kahmke.

Pat, one of seven finalists as vice president of Personnel, received a $250 scholarship to the college of her choice. She is interested in a sales management career and plans to attend Cannon College in Erie, Pa.

Michelle Murray was awarded an all-expense paid scholarship to attend the five-day National Junior Achievement Conference in Bloomington, Ind.

Janice received a $495 scholarship to attend a two-week American Management Operations Enterprise program in Hamilton. She is eligible to receive college credit for her participation in this program.

Nazareth achievers Pat Curtin, Michelle Murray, Janice Columbe and Barbara Kahmke. They were awarded honors by Junior Achievement.

A Multitude of Honors

Cardinal Mooney had its Awards Night Wednesday, May 5, and at the end of the evening there were two happy students who had accumulated numerous honors.

Kathy Kuhn received academic awards in Math. She also received honors as layout editor for the Apogee, Mooney's yearbook, along with service honors in Health, and a "Youth Cares" award.

Kathy will attend Nazareth College to prepare for a career in elementary education.

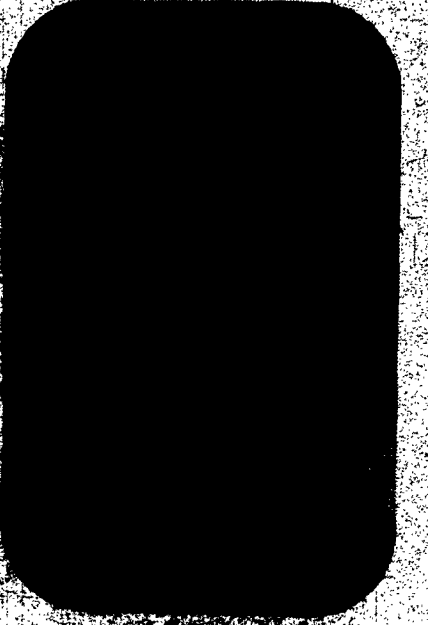

She was not the only one of the Kuhn family to be honored. Her sister Karen, an eighth grader at Holy Cross, won a Certificate of Merit for outstanding achievement on the entrance examination which makes her eligible for a Mooney Scholarship.

Bruce Brooks who will attend law courses at Harvard University was a National Merit Scholarship finalist.

He received the Bausch and Lomb Science Award and academic awards in Calculus and Spanish.
