May has been a busy month for area Catholic high schools. The Red Cross bloodmobile as it made its rounds to Rochester high schools visited Aquinas, Bishop Kearney, Cardinal Mooney, McQuaid, Mercy and St. Agnes.

School gyms usually filled with the noise of physical exertion and game competitions were converted into paramedical areas where efficient Red Cross nurses and volunteers conducted the student donors through the process of donating blood.

The bloodmobile days were a success with 650 pints donated by the five schools.

It was a family effort when the bloodmobile visited Aquinas. Mrs. Anthony Rimore, a Red Cross worker, found herself helping a willing donor, her son Anthony.
