

Father Hempel Leads St. Ann's May Walk

The annual May Walk at St. Ann's Home took place on Ascension Thursday this year. Joining in the walk were residents of the Heritage, located next door. After they reached a clearing adjacent to the rectory, a picnic lunch was served them. This year's walk was highlighted by the dedication of a statue of Mary for Father Raymond Moore, who is seriously ill. Father John Hempel built the base for the monument.

Layman Supports Pope On Election Remarks

Milan (RNS) — A prominent Italian layman has come to the defense of Pope Paul, following widespread criticism of the pontiff for his comments warning Catholics not to vote for the Italian Communist party in the national elections.

The defense of the pontiff came from Guido Carli, former governor of the Central Bank and though still young, something of an "elder statesman." He made his remarks in a front-page editorial in Corriere Della Sera, a prestigious Milan daily.

The Pope, in a speech to the Italian Bishops' Conference May 14 said it was not possible to reconcile true Christianity with Marxism. He has been widely criticized in the "lay" press for "interfering" in the electoral campaign.

"I do not understand what logical basis there is for denying to the head of the Church the right to indicate to the faithful the moral principles from which the Church draws inspiration," Carli said.

"It is up to the individual to make the decisions from the depths of his conscience. One does not make major decisions without suffering, whether one is in command or under obedience. It is not right to call for silence in order to avoid every such disturbance."

Carli similarly supported remarks by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in which the American said that Washington would

"reassess" its relations with Italy should the Communists gain a role in the Italian government.

"It seems to me," Carli said, "that those responsible for the carrying out of U.S. foreign affairs, like any other members of the Atlantic Alliance, have the moral responsibility to warn about what might be the repercussions in their country following a change in the political structure of one of the allies."

Church Agencies Petition FCC

Washington — For the first time, Roman Catholic agencies have joined with Protestants in filing a petition with the Federal Communications Commission. The petition asks that the FCC require all broadcasting stations to provide program time to non-profit community organizations to serve the public interest.

Filing the petition and request for a policy statement with the FCC were the Communication Committee of the United States Catholic Conference, the Communication Commission of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., the Office of Communication of the United Church of Christ and UNDA-USA, an organization of Catholic broadcasters.
