Matthew 25:40

From Commitment

Comes Friendship

By JOAN M. SMITH

Bishop Kearney's "Seniors Touching People" (STP) Organization has an active tutoring program. Those involved spend many hours a week helping in the elementary schools by providing extra teaching aid in various subject review areas.

How would those involved explain their commitment to BK juniors interested in joining STP next year?

"It's fun and gives you a sense of satisfaction," is how Nora Sylvester described her time spent at School 22 where she is involved in the first grade reading program.

Kathy Kowalski, a tutor at St. Joseph's Villa, explained her commitment as "it makes you feel wanted... it's something you enjoy and it is worthwhile."

Jim Sable and Dave Quiest are tutors at St. Stanislaus school. Jim sees his commitment "As a good experience," and Dave noted, "It's rewarding and it's fun coming back to your grammar school."

The tutoring program at St. Stanislaus is in its third year and those who participate are graduates of the school. Rosemary Kelly is there on Thursdays while Dave and Jim check in on Friday mornings and from what eighth grade instructor, Anne Ford said, "They've been known to show up on their days off."

All the BK students agree that it is more than the helping out academically. According to Jim, there is no greater feeling than when a youngster approaches you and asks if you would like to be his friend.

Aside from their involvement in community services these STP members are all busy people. Jim is a member of the BK Drama Club and will appear in the school's Fall play, "Midsummer Night's Dream." He attributed his interest in the theater to when, as a student at St. Stanislaus, he played Santa Claus in a holiday production. His future plans include attending St. John Fisher College for psychology courses.

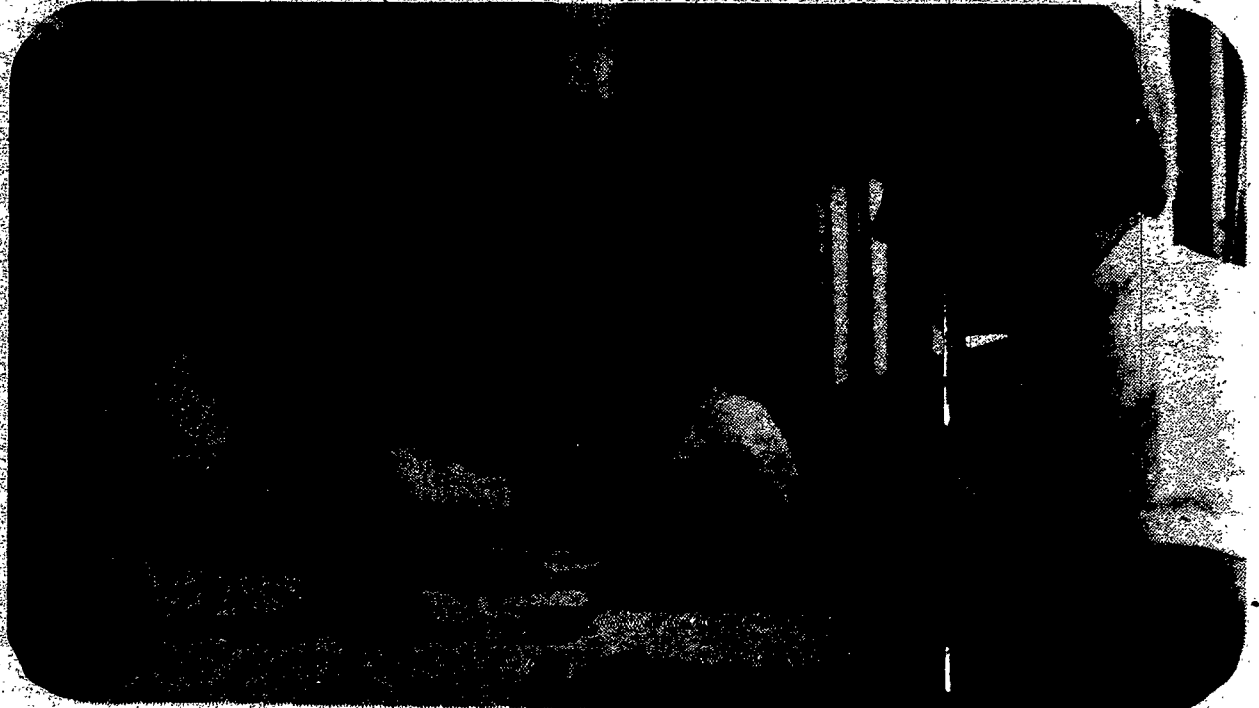

Dave plays intramural basketball and classmate Nora belongs to the ski and pep clubs. Kathy has been a cheerleader for three years, likes horseback riding, and swimming

She intends to take a secretarial course at Alfred State College.

They all have a way with kids which shows in the rapport between them during the tutoring sessions. Seventh grader Eugene Osze smiled and said, "They really help us." His classmate, Taras Salamaca nodded agreement, and added, "They explain things real well."

Dave explained this assessment, "I remember doing the work and the problems I had with it, so I understand their problems."

Being remembered was one result of their commitment which satisfied the young adults. As Jim said, "The kids will remember you and it's a nice feeling to be remembered."

St. Stanislaus student, Jennifer Smith, happily pursues the challenge of a review drill monitored by BK senior Jim Sable. In background, tutor Dave Quiest and his students Eugene Osze and Taras Salamaca work on Mathematics.
