

In a message for the World Day of Peace, Pope Paul reminded us that peace is a product of love — true love, human love. It must be founded upon justice and the basic principle of human brotherhood, upon the respect and love due each man because he is a man, because he is a brother . . . my brother . . . our brother.”

We take this season of Christmas to thank you for all you have done in the year that is closing — to help us remind our world that peace is truly a product of love — and love is spelled Missions!
