

Frisco Gets New Bishop

Washington, D.C. (RNS) — Archbishop John R. Quinn of Oklahoma City has been named archbishop of San Francisco, succeeding Archbishop Joseph McGucken who resigned for reasons of age. He will be 75 on March 13.

Pope Paul VI also named Father William Skylstad, chancellor Spokane, Wash., to be bishop of Yakima, Wash., and Msgr. Robert Mulvee, chancellor of Manchester, N.H., auxiliary bishop to Bishop Odore Gendron of Manchester.

Charismatic Meeting Set

An evening of praise, worship, instruction and fellowship has been scheduled by the Rochester Catholic Charismatic Renewal Coordinating Center for 7:30 p.m., Friday, March 4. Sister Carole Proia will speak on "After You Reach the Mountaintop, What Next?"

Sister Carole is principal of Nativity School in Brockport and has been active for several years in charismatic renewal. She also is a member of the Chadash Prayer Community in Hamlin.

Tax Expert To Speak

Betty Hindmarch, taxpayer service specialist of the Internal Revenue Service will be the speaker at the next open forum of the Senior Citizens Council at 1 p.m. Monday, March 7 at the Senior Citizens Action Council Drop-In Lounge at 40 N. Clinton Ave.

She also will answer questions on income tax. All seniors and their friends are welcome.

BLUE ARMY

The monthly all-night vigil, sponsored by the Blue Army of our Lady of Fatima, in reparation to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary, opens at 9 p.m. in Holy Rosary Church on Friday, March 4. Mass, celebrated at 6 the following morning by Father Robert Meng, pastor, closes the devotions.

Business in the Diocese

Yesterday marked the first publication date of a new Rochester area tabloid newspaper named Photonews. The paper is "devoted to photographers and photography," in the words of Ray Chapman, editor and publisher. Chapman is the former financial news editor of the Democrat and Chronicle. His wife, Heather, is manager of Photonews, and Jim Cotton, a former reporter and editor with the Erie Canal News, is news editor. Arthur Gatehouse Jr. is the advertising representative.
