Section 5 Tournament

The saying, "Rome wasn't built in a day," also goes for Our Lady of Mercy High School's annual Mission Day. This event sponsored by the Catholic Student Mission Crusade (CSMC) has become a permanent feature of the school's heritage and encompasses a chain of activities which spans more than 24 hours.

There's the Mission Day Mass on March 18; the Spaghetti Dinner, Friday, March 25 from 5:30-7:30 p.m., the Children's Bazaar scheduled March 26, 2-4 p.m.; and the silent auction which will add a unique twist to the main festivities on Saturday, 7-11 p.m.

Plans for this year's Mission Day began back in the summer of '76 and were put into action by the various committees as early as January. It was then that Emily Hudon's donations committee began making their phone calls and personal visits to businesses for prize items.

Linda Hahn, committee leader for the Mission Day Mass, has been cracking the whip for weeks. She and her co-workers have been diligently working to produce a Mass, "that will be a meaningful experience for the students," explained Linda.

The committee is writing up the whole liturgy including songs and readings. The music department is totally involved and according to Linda, "everyone has been working 24 hours a day."

The spaghetti dinner committee under the direction of Maureen Casey planned the menu, will cook and serve, and have been in the process of recruiting fellow classmates as waitresses.

Aileen Farrell is in charge of the silent auction where all items will be displayed

Freshman groups at Nazareth Academy are combining their academic efforts with diocesan plans to demonstrate Christian commitment to the people in Christ in the developing nations.

Social Studies teacher, Sister Kathleen Clary, is chairing the activities of Operation Bread Loaf with enthusiasm and high hopes for better understanding of Upper Volta and southern India. The freshmen plan to sponsor a Gong Show with admission proceeds going to developing countries. Two car washes are scheduled for Saturday, April 2.

Another group of freshmen are making posters and preparing publicity strategies to make known the needs of the people in the Third World. Sister Kathleen is making available "Loan Loafs," small banks shaped like loaves of bread, for individual or family contributions.

with pad and pencil next to them for the bidders to make their offers known. Aileen is enthusiastic about some of the items which she is confident will make the auction an interesting venture; a week-end trip to an island in the Thousand Islands; a flag which flew over the Capitol on July 4, 1976; invitation announcements to President Carter's Inauguration; and a puppy. This committee has been determined in their quest for the unique with "phone-calls every night and return trips to places with their auction requests," claimed Aileen.

The little people aren't being forgotten as Lori Cullen along with her eight co-workers have been putting together the Children's Bazaar for those in kindergarten to fifth grade. Coco the Clown will be on hand as well as 50 Mercians, in costumes, to give the youngsters a fun filled two hours.

President of the CSMC and overseer of all this organizing, is Sue Hahn. She has been working closely with the publicity committee and as one classmate laughingly stated, "She keeps her fellow workers up all night with her ideas."

But that is what it's all about, at least from what Linda said. "When you are at your wits end and then someone all of a sudden pipes up and says 'what about this idea!'" Well, that makes the effort worthwhile.

Tapping each other's expertise and resources is the type of teamwork that produces success in any given situation but the students are quick to point out that it's not all them. They agree that faculty involvement and parent cooperation is what makes the Mercy spirit a total effort.

"It's good," commented Sue, "when you see a big job ahead of you and then people come up and ask if you need any help."

All their time, work, and frustrations will culminate in Mission Day '77' the proceeds from which will be sent to various missions here and abroad. But no sooner will the curtain come down on this event then the girls will be lending their talents to the numerous other activities sponsored by the CSMC.

Happy to take a break from their duties are CSMC committee heads Sue, Maureen, Aileen (sitting), and Linda, Emily and Lori. They are happy with the music selected for the Mission Day Mass; the "Anthem" from Jonathan Livingston Seagull.
