

South America, 1

"If everyone in this whole area gave $1 to the missions..."

While a good deal of the time was spent working at poverty-stricken mission areas, Bishop Joseph L. Hogan and his diocesan touring party also had time for lighter things - such as washing and hanging clothes, doing the dishes, dodging vicious dogs, wandering around lost and other impressive pursuits.

We have rounded up some of the more inspiring photos of these endeavors so that Courier readers, too, may join in on the less dire moments of the visitation tour.

Somebody told him he ought to hang 'em up.

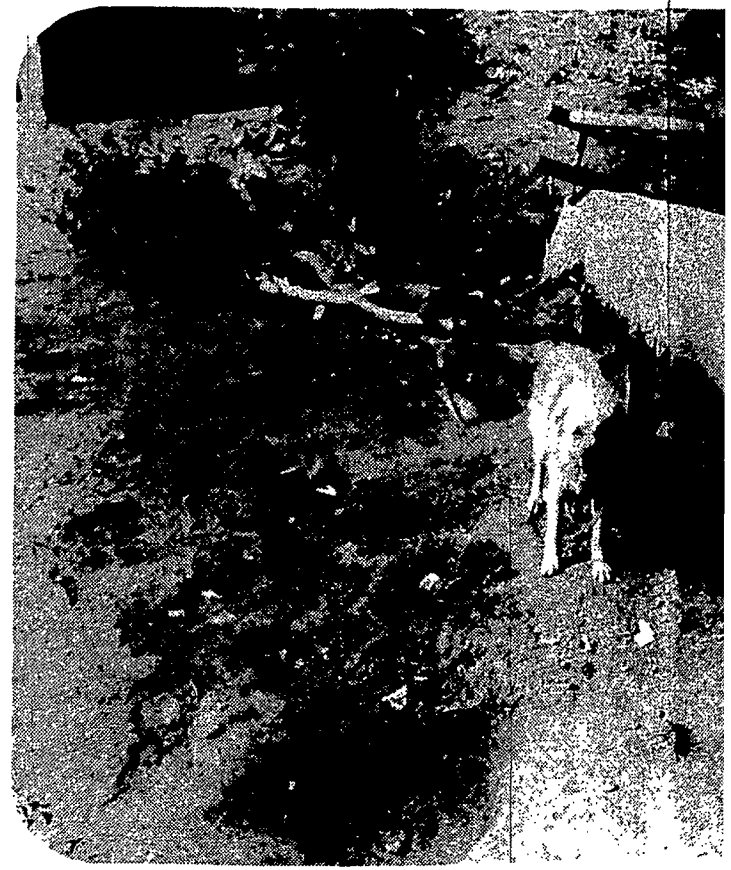

The boys on the bus.

Washing and Photos by
Anthony J. Costello

"How do you get these clericals on?"

What do you think of photog