Passion Play Revised

This is a scene from this year's production of the world famous Oberammergau Passion Play. The text of the play has been revised as a result of pressure from over the world. The play now indicts the sins of mankind, rather than the Jews, as the cause of the death of Jesus

El Salvador Nuncio Meets with Pontiff

Vatican City (RNS) — Pope Paul held a private audience with the Vatican's representative to El Salvador, the predominantly Roman Catholic Central American country where recent right-wing animosity and violence has troubled the Church.

The audience took place Aug. 26 at the papal summer residence in Castelgandolfo, south of Rome.

Vatican officials said that because the meeting was private, it could not be disclosed what was discussed by the Pope and Archbishop Emanuele Gerada, the apostolic nuncio to El Salvador and Guatemala.

It was generally assumed that the Pope wanted to hear about growing antagonism toward the Church in El Salvador and about the death threat in July against 47 Jesuit priests there.

The Roman Catholic Church in El Salvador has come under attack from right-wing groups this year, which accused priests of stirring up the country's poor to demand better economic opportunities. Within the past year, two priests have been killed, 15 have been expelled from the country, five others have been denied re-entry, and three have claimed they were tortured.

In July, El Salvador's 47 Jesuit priests were singled out by one right-wing terrorist group and ordered to leave the country by July 20 or face assassination. World pressure brought the government of Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero, which previously had indicated sympathy with the right-wing accusations, to deploy the police and military protection for the Jesuits which eased the tension.

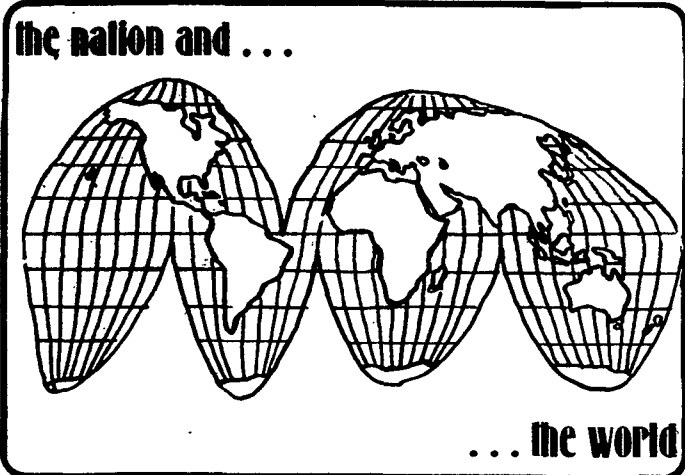

SOME THOUGHTS TO CONSIDER

By Ed Sulewski

How different is death today from that of our grandparents. A century ago nearly all death and dying was done in the home with the family present. Those who were present might not have been skilled as the doctors and nurses of today's death scene, but they had strong feelings about what was happening to the one they loved. We have moved from the emotionally involved to the technically skilled, and in the process we have created an impersonal atmosphere surrounding death. When asked, most people would prefer to die at home in the presence of their families but this is seldom done today. The changes we observe seem to deny the emotional to meet physical needs. We encourage medical progress but we should also be more concerned about people's feelings. When death is removed from the context of life, the event is real but the relationship to it tends to be remote and unreal.

Castro's Cuba Hit On Human Rights

Washington, D.C. (RNS) — A Georgetown University professor has asserted that Cuban dictator Fidel Castro's "continuing human rights violations against his own people, his military imperialism in Africa and continuing exportation of Marxist revolution are "major barriers to normalization of relations" between the United States and Cuba.

Dr. Roger Fontaine, director of the Latin American Division of the Georgetown University Center for Strategic and International Studies, issued his views in a study sent to Congress.

His views represent a "major departure from the analysis offered by foreign policy experts in the administration and at the State Department," according to a spokesman of the Council for Inter-American Security an independent foreign policy research and education group which published the study.

Fontaine argues that these three factors represent "crucial obstacles" to any final normalization of relations between the two countries, and that only practical issues of immediate concern, such as fishing rights, will be negotiated prior to major changes by the Castro regime in the sensitive areas.

"The plain truth," the Georgetown professor says, "is Cuba has the longest standing and worst record on human rights in this hemisphere. We are not dealing with abstract concepts. We are dealing with exorbitant sentences, torture and gradations of human degradation that few in this country believe still exist."

He estimates that between 40,000 and 60,000 political prisoners are being held in Castro's jails. "That figure is an equivalent to nearly a quarter million political prisoners in this country," he said.

Noting that an estimated 30,000 Cuban "mercenaries" remain in Angola assisting the "Soviet-backed MPLA" in the "subversion" there, the professor said that "both Cuban soliders, bureaucrats and technicians will be needed to make Angola work" under the Marxist regime.

The Puerto Rican FALN, which has taken responsibility for terrorist bombings, is one of seven major Marxist guerrilla organizations "operating in a like number in Latin and South American countries with Cuban funds, training and assistance," his study states.

Some 10,000 singers from throughout Italy are expected to gather in Rome for a series of concerts marking the 80th birthday of Pope Paul on Sept. 26. The National Convention of Singers, organized by the Italian Association of St. Cecilia, will feature a number of the country's most famous professional soloists and vocal groups, as well as selected parish choirs. Programs will include Gregorian Chant, classical polyphonic compositions and modern church music. In addition 80 artists will present 80 of their works in the pontiff's honor. A monumental bronze bas-relief of the resurrection by Italian artist Pericle Fazzini will be unveiled at the Vatican.

A survey shows that 24 states and the District of Columbia are still providing Medicaid funds for abortion, despite the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in June that such payments are not obligatory. The federal government also reported recently that it will stop reimbursing states which continue to provide public funds for welfare abortions. The survey was conducted by the United Press International. And, last, but certainly not least, the radio and television office of the Archdiocese of Hartford is giving away 100,000 copies of the New Testament in a public campaign to help people better communicate with each other. Requests are pouring in for the bibles from all sectors of the archdiocese and beyond. The head of the program noted that the office is looking for ways to expand the program beyond Connecticut.

Lector Talk Is Dec. 7

The date of the training program to be given by Father Benedict Ehman as part of the four-part series at St. Theodore's Church was incorrectly listed in last week's Courier-Journal. Entitled The Lector and Liturgy, Father Ehman's program will be Dec. 7.

Other parts of the series are The Lector and Scriptures, Joseph Kelly, Oct. 5; The Lector and Public Speaking, George Walker, Feb. 1; and the Lector and Organization, Paul Oliver, April 12.

You don't have to be the new Van Cliburn to study at the Eastman School

EASTMAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC KILBOURN HALL EASTMAN THEATRE

In addition to being one of the world's major professional music conservatories, the Eastman School offers opportunities for study to music lovers in the Rochester area. The Eastman Preparatory Faculty includes many members of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra, as well as artist teachers of the Eastman School.

To study in the Eastman Preparatory Department, you need not be pre-college age. Many adults, especially those who studied instruments or singing in their childhood, come to Eastman to begin again their musical studies.

We offer individual lessons in voice, piano, organ, strings, woodwinds, brass, and percussion, and classes in music history and theory. Preparatory schedules are flexible; the cost is eight or eleven dollars per half-hour lesson; and the quality of instruction can be summed up in one word: Eastman.

For more information, call Vincent Lenti, Chairman, Eastman Preparatory Department 275-3015.

The University of Rochester offers equal opportunities regardless of sex, age, religion, and national or ethnic origin.
