Shareholders' Day

The care of hair as demonstrated by students Lorraine Serpe (standing) and Kelly Doherty and a fashion seminar conducted by Bonnie Denison from the Barbizon School of Modeling were only two of the special programs held for St. Agnes students on Shareholders' Day, Sept. 30. Also held were pie eating contests, faculty-student softball games, soccer games, stained glass demos and a dance featuring Fat City. According to Student Senate officers, the goal of Shareholders' Day was to share ideas and fun with the entire student body and Sister Anne Guerin, principal, happily reported, "Everyone had a really fine time."

VARIED EVENTS

It was Sister Mary Celeste, class moderator, Sue Mack, Mary Beth Murrer and Lynn Mylius, the senior class officers, who made the plans for the senior trip to Toronto, Canada where 150 students visited the Science Center and Safari Land. In bottom photo, Sister Jane Schur, moderator for the Christian Action Movement along with student officers Julie Clas, Joanne Morley and Mary Beth Brankacz model their bobby socks, rolled up jeans and button-down sweaters they wore for the CAM sponsored 50's dress-up day. Students donated to the CAM treasury in order to wear the jive age attire.

Spirited Year Planned

St. Agnes High School has begun another year and on Sept. 23, the presidents of the classes, organizations and clubs presented their plans and ideas for the months ahead.

The Ski Club is planning a week-end trip. Dianne Boyle, vice president said "We are in the process of planning a week-end trip to possibly Vermont, Massachusetts or Canada. We hope to get enthusiasm and support from parents, students and faculty."

The Drama Club is planning many productions along with the Glee Club who will perform during Christmas and the Fine Arts Week in March. Glee Club members will also perform in state competition. There will also be the annual musical production in May.

Class schedules are also busy. The freshmen have plans for rollerskating parties besides get togethers with their big sisters. Sophomores will have their traditional pajama party and the juniors are anxiously awaiting their class rings and prom.

The seniors had their huge bonfire on Oct. 3 and had a great time even though the class beanies were delayed until November.

Library News

Nazareth Academy's Faculty Library Day, Oct. 5, was aimed at reaffirming the library's commitment to provide supportive services in the total education of the students; to acquaint new teachers with the library and its staff and services; and to encourage the use of the library by all faculty members.

An early September bulletin reviewed for the faculty various library services and procedures and another fun-quiz bulletin focused the students' attention on the rules of the library and its services. Each student then applied personally for her library card by completing the application form included in her bulletin. The theme for student orientation this year is "Know Your Way Around" and is repeated for the faculty in the form of pertinent questions focusing on the library materials in their specific content fields. The faculty bulletin also outlined a new service of routing editorial research reports to appropriate departments. The folder ended with some statistics about the number of books added last year, the number discarded and lost, how many teachers brought classes for special instruction in library research, how many used the library to display students' work and how many faculty members attended last year's Faculty Day

English Culture

Thirty-five Advanced Placement English Mercy students along with their teacher Mrs. Midge Marshall travelled to Stratford, Ontario to see a performance of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing, Sept. 29.

In talking about the advantages of such an experience Mrs. Marshall, who has seen many of performances, declared "It's an experience like nothing they'll ever have. You don't have to like Shakespeare to love Stratford. It's exciting theater and extremely well done."

"Where Does the Destruction of the Unborn Put Medicine, Society, and Religion?"

Lecture by MILDRED F. JEFFERSON, M.D.

First black woman graduate of Harvard University School of Medicine. Associate Professor of Surgery. Boston University. President, National Right to Life Committee.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1977

3:00 P.M.

Lower Strong Auditorium University of Rochester Campus

8:00 P.M.

Cardinal Mooney High School Auditorium (800 Maiden Lane)

Dr. Jefferson has championed the "Right to Life" of unborn children since their legal protection was first undermined by legislation and judicial decrees allowing unlimited abortion. She stands as a reminder to the medical profession that each human life is sacred and that the physician's role is one of healing and comforting, never one of exterminating.

After speaking Dr. Jefferson will answer questions.
